Coroner Case

Lawyer 'Fed To Teeth'

TORONTO (CP)—Deputy national NDP leader David Lewis stirred things up Tuesday when he suddenly appeared at a coroner's inquest into the death of a Toronto chief coroner Dr. Milton Shulman at a royal commission probe into Shulman's charges of government interference.

The commissioner, Ontario Supreme Court Justice W. D. Parker, said Shulman had no right to be represented by counsel after his first lawyer, Walter Williston, withdrew Monday.

Lewis shot back, "I'm fed to the teeth with this kind of statement," after which the commissioner accepted Lewis.

Road Toll A Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. motor vehicle accidents took record tolls of dead, injured and property damage last year, the B.C. Safety Council said Tuesday.

The death toll rose to 520 from 500 in 1965, the injury total to 19,450 from 17,574 and the property damage to $36,198,227 from $23,625,096. The number of vehicles rose to 817,348 from 764,353.

Victim of Rivard Affair

Once Liberal Star, Favreau Dies at 50

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Favreau, former federal cabinet minister who resigned in 1965 due to criticism resulting from the Rivard affair the year before, died Tuesday in a hospital he entered June 13 for treatment of uraemia. He was 50.

Once considered heir apparent to the Liberal party leadership, he was first elected in 1963. In the next year, he became citizenship and immigration minister and then justice minister, government House leader and chief of Quebec federal Liberals.

But while this was happening, Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne claimed he was subjected to a attempted bribery and coercion aimed at having him drop opposition to bill for Lucien Rivard, now serving time in the U.S. on a narcotics charge.

The report of the resulting royal commission inquiry criticized Mr. Favreau for deciding on his own against prosecutions based on the Lamontagne allegations.

Mr. Favreau resigned June 26, 1965, stayed in the cabinet as minister without portfolio and then president of the Privy Council and registrar-general. This year, he resigned due to ill health and was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

Prime Minister Pearson said of the death of the Montreal-born Favreau: "I have lost a dear friend and Canada has lost a great patriot. He had no trace of meanness or smallness in his nature."

John Diefenbaker, extending sympathy, said: "It is very sad."

Vancouver Sniper Inquest

Patient Dangerous Doctor Told Police

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor testified Tuesday he contacted police and told them the former gunman "was potentially dangerous and should be investigated."

Dr. Henry Chong said one of his reasons for contacting the police was that "I didn't want the guns to be there when I was there."

He was testifying at an inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. David Webster, shot by a sniper last Thursday in the backyard of their Point Grey district house.

Towell, 35, who suffered a severe brain injury while stationed in West Germany with the RCAF several years ago, is charged with capital murder in the Webster deaths and two counts of attempted murder in the wounding of two women.

Dr. Chong said Towell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Towell, came to his office last August and expressed concern about what their son might do.

"The boy was afraid someone was after him," said Dr. Chong. "The parents were afraid of what he might do. I told them to go to the police and the situation would be investigated."

"I didn't know if they would go to the police, so I contacted the police myself and told them

No Letup in Air War McNamara Promises

From UPI, AP, LAT

SAIGON — U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara finished his five-day Vietnam visit Tuesday and flew back to Washington to tell President Johnson how much more men, money and material must be pumped into the war.

Before leaving, he said there would be no letup in the air war, declared U.S. commanders will get all the troops necessary and hinted it may be difficult to justify commitments above the 470,000 Americans now authorized for battlefield duty. (See also Page 3).

ASKS FOR MORE

McNamara's recommendations and evaluation are expected to play an important role in administration policy during the next few months.

Gen. William Westmoreland was believed to have asked for between 100,000 and 200,000 additional troops.

Sources said McNamara instead urged Westmoreland's

Cuban Banished

MIAMI (AP)—U.S. immigration authorities Tuesday ordered Cuban exile leader Felipe Rivero, 45, banished from the U.S. for anti-Castro terrorist activities.

Rivero, arrested May 5 after he threatened to blow up the Cuban pavilion at Expo, will be sent to a country of his choice, possibly Spain.

However, his lawyers said they will appeal the immigration court verdict, to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. He has lived in the U.S. since 1959 as a refugee under parole, except for time in Cuban prisons after the Bay of Pigs fiasco.

Experts Warn U.S.:

NUCLEAR LEAD GOING EAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The U.S. will lose its lead over Russia this year in terms of deliverable nuclear punch, a report signed by former leading U.S. military men said Tuesday.

And by 1971, the report said, "it appears that a massive megatonnage gap will have developed."

Megatonnage is the term used to describe the atomic force of strategic weapons — the firepower in the nuclear age, as the report put it. One megaton equals 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Among those who endorsed the study was U.S. Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, who was head of the country's intercontinental ballistic missile development program 12 years until he retired last August.

PREPARED STUDY

Schriever served as chairman of a special American Security Council subcommittee, which, the report's forward said, prepared the strategic military study for the armed services committee of the House of Representatives.

The council describes itself as a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education.

SIGNED BY LEMAY

In addition to Schriever, the report was signed by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former air force chief of staff; Gen. Paul D. Adams, U.S. Army, former commander-in-chief, U.S. Strike Command; Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF, former commander of the Strategic Air Command; Admiral Robert L. Dennison, former commander of the Atlantic Fleet, and Dr. Edward Teller, the nuclear scientist. Except for Schriever, the military men are retired.

ANTI-MISSILE PLAN

In addition to expressing concern over the impending "megatonnage gap," the officers outlined the case for deployment of a U.S. anti-missile system, presented evidence that the Soviet Union may be building orbital nuclear bombs and blamed civilian leaders for a deliberate decision to allow the Soviet Union to slice the U.S. lead in terms of long-range offensive missiles.

LEAD IN NUMBERS

The United States, defence department figures say, now leads the Soviet Union in numbers of missiles by a 3-to-1 margin.

But discussing the megatonnage yield, or payload, of those missiles, the council subcommittee reached Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara's own recent testimony to Congress:

"We should bear in mind that it is not the number of missiles which is important, but rather the character of the payloads they carry; the missile is simply the delivery vehicle."

TO EXCEED U.S.

The year, the report said, the Soviet Union will reach a range of between 16,000 and 37,000 megatons in terms of deliverable atomic destruction, equaling or exceeding the United States' estimated range of 8,000 to 29,000 megatons.

In four years, the Soviet Union will have 30,000 to 50,000 deliverable megatons, compared

Bennett Anniversary

Happy No. 40!

Premier Bennett, who worked on the day of his wedding to Annie Elizabeth May Richards in Edmonton July 11, 1927, celebrated their 40th anniversary Tuesday by working a full day—then taking his wife out to dinner.

His main comment on the occasion: "I feel younger than I did 40 years ago."

He and Mrs. Bennett will fly to Montreal for B.C. Day at Expo Saturday. With them will be the premier's executive assistant, William Budd—his best man of 40 years ago.

Nikita Claims:

We Elected Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP)—Retired Nikita Khrushchev claims the Kremlin thwarted Richard Nixon's election in 1960 and "made" John F. Kennedy president of the U.S.

In an NBC television program Tuesday, he calls Nixon a "good for nothing — an unprincipled puppet" and accuses Dwight Eisenhower as a good man, but too easily swayed by advisers.

BOUGHT VOTES

The former Soviet premier says Nixon sought to gain votes by obtaining the release of U-2 spy-plane Pilot Francis Gary Powers from a Soviet prison. Khrushchev maintains the Russians saw through the plan and ignored Nixon's request.

Khrushchev reserves his greatest praise for Kennedy, and says were he alive today "he would never let his country get into such a sticky situation as it now is in Vietnam."

Speaking from his dacha, or country house, near Moscow, Khrushchev recounts a conversation he said he had with Kennedy in Vienna in 1961:

ASKED HOW

"I told him, 'The fact that you became president was due to us. We made you president.' He asked me how should he understand that. I said, 'I'll tell you how.'"

"You collected 200,000 more votes than Nixon. Nixon asked us for Powers, the U-2 pilot, to be released. . . and if we had done it, he would have received half a million votes just for that. . . because that would have shown that Nixon could have established better contacts with the Soviet Union."

'WE GUESSED'

"But we guessed his plans. We decided not to give him any answer, and just to give it to you when you moved into the White House. So what do you think of that?" I asked Kennedy.

"He said, 'I agree with you entirely. If you had not acted

Two B.C. Bank Branches Here

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The new Bank of B.C. will have at least two branches in Victoria, president Frank Trebell said here Tuesday.

He said the city would have two branches offering comprehensive banking services, and added it's possible Oak Bay could have its own somewhat smaller branch.

Trebell, who came to town

for a press conference and luncheon speech, indicated plans include a branch here just to handle the provincial government account.

He said the reduction of the initial capital fund drive to $25,000,000 from $75,000,000 is all to the good.

"This way the bank will start earning immediately," he said. "It's obviously easier to attract $500,000,000 in deposits instead of $1,500,000,000. We will be able to build branches more slowly and control costs better."

Type A branches with 18 to 30 employees each offering a full range of commercial services will be confined initially to Vancouver and Victoria.

Vancouver will have the head office and three or four branches in this category and Victoria will have two.

Type B, regionally-important branches, would be located in places like Kelowna and Prince George "and perhaps Oak Bay" which, according to Trebell, has sufficient savings to sustain such an operation.

Smaller branches will have to wait at least until the initial three-year development period is over, the president said.

Trebell said the bank hopes to decentralize its operations giving local branch managers more authority.

Since the capital goal was reduced, he said, the campaign has for the first time the full support of investment dealers, who asked that the closing date be extended one month to Aug. 15.

Trebell said policy is not to release details of support already received but, by the end of this week, "we'll be halfway to our goal with a month to go."

Handout Confirms Service Suspicion

SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED

It has long been suspected that some gay times are had in service housing establishments, and now an official handout from the services information office confirms this. A note dated July 7 begins:

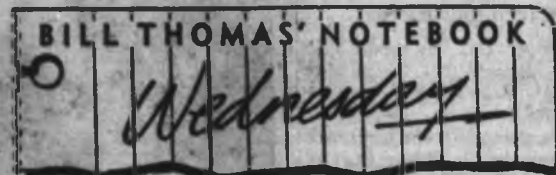

"Nearly 60 boys and girls, the sons and daughters of servicemen and the Esquimalt community at large..."

PAVE AWAY: The blacktop project at the Saanich bottle bazaar had clients in a tizzy Tuesday.

The poor souls in search of three-quarters were forced to scale a mound of dirt to get into the store after parking on McKenzie. One customer of the LCB said his heart condition forced him to abandon the quest, and he drove downtown.

They are determined to make it together all the time for those who insist on paying their taxes the pleasant way.

JUST NOT SO: All too often Vancouver and its entertainment is held up to us peasants as the purveyor of cultural success. The Casa Town fans have been so unresponsive to the prospect of seeing jazzman Gunther Schuller and his group that the concert planned by the Festival Society has been cancelled.

NEW RULES: The University of Victoria has changed the rules for its students.

Students have long suspected that this university is a direct extension of the high school system so it will come as no shock to learn that following the lead of the high schools the university has decided to abolish the seven-eighths attendance rule.

The new regulation says students are expected to attend all lectures, but there is one rule that will bring a gleam of nostalgia to all old soldiers' eyes.

Remember that grand old catch-all, "conduct prejudicial to the maintenance of good order and discipline?"

The university has this jewel: "Admission to a lecture or lab may be refused by the instructor for lateness, misconduct, inattention or neglect of duty."

SOUND APPOINTMENT: The Victoria School of Music

has hired Jack Kessler as head of the string department at the school. He comes with an impressive background as concertmaster of the Vancouver Symphony, CBC Chamber Orchestra, a member of the Hungarian String Quartet and as a player with the London Philharmonia Orchestra. He will not replace Jean Angers as concertmaster with the Victoria Symphony.

Director of the School, Robin Wood, says that when a new concertmaster is appointed he will join the faculty.

REMIX GALORE: The Jerry Gossel offering for this session should end up with a decent balance on the books if the action of a Washington doctor is trend-setting.

George Harwood, MD, of Everett, saw the Smile Show in 1965 and is bringing a party of Texans to see it July 25.

He wrote ordering tickets saying, "I will not pay you the $2 admission, but what I feel the show is worth."

The doctor sent $4 for each ticket. The cast is ecstatic.

Khrushchev

the way you did, Nixon would definitely have got his 200,000 votes.

"So I said, 'That is the way I voted for you and you voted pulled you over the line.' And this is a fact. And Nixon wanted it. There were all sorts of hints."

TOLD STRAIGHT
"Lodge, Nixon's running mate, told me straight out: 'Don't you pay any attention to what we say during the election. We will have an excellent relationship with you. But I didn't believe it.'"

Actually, Powers was not released until 1962. NBC says it was the captured RB-47 flyers who Nixon released when Kennedy entered the White House in 1960.

KEPT MUM
Edwin Newman, narrating the program, Khrushchev in Exile—His Opinions and Revelations, said Nixon declined comment on the story, and that Henry Cabot Lodge said he was sure he never made the remark attributed to him by Khrushchev.

Speaking of Eisenhower, Khrushchev is quoted as saying through an interpreter:

"If I were to compare the two American presidents whom I met, the comparison would obviously not be in favor of Eisenhower."

"Judging from the opinion of people who knew Eisenhower as a military leader and as a statesman, they did not hold him in much respect either in one field or in the other."

MEDIOCRE GENERAL
"They considered him a mediocre general and a weak president, because of the softness of his character, and one must admit that he is a good man. He easily fell under the influence of his aides and his subordinates. Obviously being a president and ruling the country was a great burden for him."

"Eisenhower, when he had any more or less important negotiations would, at every quiet moment, I put forward, immediately turn to his advisers and aides demanding explanations or answers to my questions."

ATTACHED NIXON
"When I came to the states and met Eisenhower in the White House, the first thing I did was to begin to attack Nixon. Eisenhower looked at me in amazement. Nixon, that good for nothing, had given an interview saying all sorts of things. Eisenhower later admitted that he hadn't seen it."

"I have a very low opinion of Nixon, very, and I thought that Lodge was cleverer than Nixon. Lodge went with me when I was in the States and when I was in the States and I talked to him."

NO FOOL
"He's no fool. He likes jokes. He is a real general and when we were taking our seats, I usually remarked in fun, 'You are now allowed to sit down first because I am a lieutenant-general and you are only a major-general. He would laugh. I shall never forget...'"

"Mr. Kennedy made a very strong impression on me, both as a man and as a statesman. I like the way he, unlike Eisenhower, had his personal opinion in all questions we discussed."

KENNEDY PRECISE
"Kennedy was entirely different from Eisenhower and had a precisely formulated answer to every question. Apparently he had thought them out before and they corresponded to his main line of thought, to his personal point of view."

"Kennedy was a real statesman. Neither he nor I wanted war, so during the Caribbean crisis we established direct communication between the Kremlin and the White House. Kennedy had a talent for solving international conflicts by negotiation. I had proof of this during the so-called Cuban crisis."

Parts of the tape, previously published, deal with Khrushchev's claim that the Soviet Union was the winner in the Cuban confrontation, because it gained an American pledge not to invade Cuba.

Also published previously is that part of the tape in which Khrushchev calls China's Mao Tse-tung "a petit bourgeois with a peasant nature" who wanted the Soviet premier to provoke the United States into military action.

Shelepin

Russian Bigwig Demoted

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Shelepin, former head of the secret police and long a contender for top power, was named Tuesday to the powerless post of Soviet trade union boss.

The demotion of the ambitious 42-year-old followed elimination of a number of his proteges from key jobs amid signs of a Kremlin power struggle.

Recent events have indicated that, from a leading position in the collective leadership that succeeded Nikita Khrushchev in 1964, Shelepin has been progressively isolated within the Kremlin high command led by Communist party general secretary Leonid Brezhnev.

RETAINS SEAT

The appointment left him with his seat on the party's 11-man politburo, the committee that runs the Soviet Union. The announcement failed to mention his other key job, a party secretaryship.

Experienced non-Communist analysts long have suspected that Shelepin might lose his politburo and secretariat posts in a quiet purge. The new appointment was a step in that direction.

Europeans' Congo Fate 'Worse Than Anything'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — An old company worker arriving as a refugee from the Congo Tuesday night said he knew of 11 Europeans killed and 30 European women raped by Congolese troops on a rampage in Bukavu last week.

Jean Simon, a 35-year-old employee of the Mobile Oil Co. in Bukavu, capital of the Congo's Kivu province, said all Americans had been evacuated from the city under direction of Truett F. Crigles, the U.S. consul there.

In Paris, the Congolese embassy denied that National troops had attacked white civilians in Kivu province. It accused mutinous white mercenaries of killing and raping Europeans.

120 BELGIANS

Simon said the Congolese army was holding 120 Belgians hostage at Bukavu College and that the Congolese radio was urging the African population "to murder and even worse."

"What happened there was madness," he said. "This is far worse than anything that happened in 1960."

Scores of European men were killed and women raped in widespread savagery. That followed an army mutiny after the Congo gained independence from Belgium in 1960.

Simon reached Brussels from Entebbe, Uganda, where he had fled from Bukavu.

MORE CASUALTIES

There were also reports of rising casualties among both Africans and Europeans in Kinshasa, capital of the Congo's Orientale province.

The Belgian radio said a U.S. Air Force C-130 transport had fallen in an attempt to rescue civilian hostages held by mutinous mercenaries there.

Disorder spread in the eastern Congo last week when troops from Katanga province learned of the arrest of their exiled hero former premier Moise Tshombe, in Algeria. The rebels were joined by foreign mercenaries who had been employed by the Congo government.

Loyal Congolese troops drove the rebels out of Bukavu, then went on a vengeful killing spree against Europeans, Simon said.

The Congo government claimed victory at Kisangani but the mercenaries still held the airport in that city.

Quoting Radio Kinshasa, in the Congo capital, the Belgian radio said the mercenaries in Kisangani had armed their hostages and forced them to fight on their side.

Sniper

Towell was potentially dangerous and should be investigated.

The doctor said Towell came to him several years ago about an epilepsy condition which developed after his German accident.

"I didn't examine him, but we discussed his epilepsy problems."

He said police recently telephoned him in connection with a gun permit sought by Towell.

"I was angry that he had used me as a reference, and I also objected to Towell receiving a permit for a hand gun because he was an epileptic."

He said he was afraid Towell might have a seizure, become confused and do something with the gun.

BEYOND SCOPE

F. A. Melvin, Towell's lawyer, objected that questions about his client's mental condition were beyond the scope of a coroner's inquest. Coroner Glen McDonald upheld the objection.

Prosecutor Stewart McMoran said Towell had been examined by a psychiatrist and found to be mentally ill to a point where "he is certifiable."

Towell's mother is scheduled to testify today.

U.S. Losing Lead with the anticipated U.S. range of 6,000 to 15,000 megatons.

"On the basis of this projection, the U.S. and U.S.S.R. will have reversed their roles in a 10-year period," the report said.

As for the anti-missile issue, the subcommittee said:

"The U.S. defence department, asked to comment, said numbers of weapons and sizes of warheads alone "are a very incomplete indicator of military strength."

MORE THAN ENOUGH

"True military capability results from numbers of weapons that are accurate and reliable, that can survive an enemy attack and that can penetrate enemy defences," the department said.

"The United States has and will continue to have more than enough of such weapons to convince any enemy that an attack on this country would be suicidal."

"In the absence of an ABM (anti-ballistic missile system) and with our offensive weapons restricted to a wholly defensive role, the danger of a general nuclear war is greatly increased."

This was a reference to the U.S. administration's present decision to hold off deployment of a missile system designed to intercept incoming enemy warheads.

Dust Particles Harm Lungs, Mask, Blower Best Remedy

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I refresh quite a lot of antique furniture and breathe a lot of dust from my electric sander, and also fumes from paint remover, thinners, etc. How harmful can this be to me, especially the sanding dust? — MRS. L.R.

The dust particles can settle in the lungs as well as be irritating to your eyes, nose and throat. Air is rich enough without our adding to it. Best choice would be to use a blower which will carry the dust outdoors. If that is not feasible, use a mask of some sort to cover nose and mouth.

Fumes can be irritating, too — and your "etc." covers a lot of possibilities, some of which could be quite dangerous, depending on what you use. Again — blower or mask — or both.

since a simple mask will not control fumes.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read your warning about trichinosis if pork is not thoroughly cooked. Does the same thing apply to pork liver? — T.C.

Yes. Even if the liver did not contain eggs of the trichina organism, you would have no way of being sure that they were not accidentally transferred from some other part of the animal.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a bottle of aspirin smells like vinegar, does that mean the aspirin is harmful? — MRS. F.F.

Aspirin is acetyl-salicylic acid, and that "acetyl" part comes from acetic acid. Vinegar is a diluted acetic acid. Therefore a vinegar odor can be noted in some brands. The difference depends on the kind of binder used to make the aspirin powder into pill form. Many are virtually odorless.

However, as aspirin absorbs moisture over a long period and the tablets disintegrate, they lose their value. This disintegration may bring out vinegar odor.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do two highballs harm a person if taken before dinner in the evening? — L.M.S.

Two highballs may merely relax one person, but make another person not silly. Two highballs can affect judgment, driving ability, balance. And "two highballs" can mean two drinks or two stiff ones. It depends on how you

Rusk Explains Congo Air Mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday U.S. transport planes were sent to the Congo to disperse a wave of racial agitation and show there was no "white conspiracy" to overthrow the central government.

But Rusk's private, two-hour explanation of President Lyndon Johnson's decision to step into the Congo rebellion apparently failed to satisfy most members of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

NO CHANGE

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), the armed services chairman, said Rusk's arguments had not changed his view the U.S. was risking a deeper involvement on the scale of Vietnam.

Rusk noted he had sensed concern that dispatch of the planes was a "prelude to a lot more." He said: "The answer to this is no."

Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), said administration officials "haven't made a case yet, legally or practically." Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), said the U.S. had "no business" in the Congo, no matter what the reason.

'CONCERNED'

"I don't like it," said Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.). "I'm still concerned about it, but it will probably work out," said Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of the Senate pre-press conference subcommittee.

Rusk told newsmen outside the hearing room that when mercenaries landed in the eastern Congo a week ago, there was a "rapid buildup of intense feeling against all whites," including Americans, in the Congo and a suspicion that outside powers were trying to overthrow the central government.

It seemed wise in Washington, he said, to provide "immediate, tangible support" to the regime of President Joseph Mobutu.

U.S. SUPPORT

Sending of the planes for non-combatant logistical use in putting down the rebellion was reported to the United Nations Security Council and is in keeping with UN support of the Congo's stability, he said.

Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Foreign relations committee, said Rusk seemed "genuinely surprised" at congressional opposition to the president's decision.

"The real test there had been little said about it when we sent four planes to the Congo in 1964," Fulbright said, referring to efforts to quell a leftist uprising in Stanleyville, now Kisangani.

Vital Viet Route Hit

Jets Smash Convoy

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Phantom jets destroyed or damaged 38 North Vietnamese trucks believed carrying fuel and ammunition in an attack before dawn Tuesday on a 70-truck convoy northeast of Mu Gia Pass, the U.S. Air Force announced.

Official word of the results of the raid on the convoy came after U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara remarked at a press conference in South Vietnam that the bombing operations over North Vietnam "are achieving their objective" of reducing the flow of Communist troops and supplies.

U.S. pilots flew 123 missions Monday over North Vietnam, including several against suspected artillery positions just north of the demilitarized zone. Artillery has been harassing

U.S. marine outposts just south of the zone and inflicting mounting casualties on the Americans.

Ma Gia Pass is the main gateway for North Vietnamese supplies routed across the mountains to the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos for Communist combat units in South Vietnam.

In South Vietnam, South Vietnamese government troops, outnumbered three to one, reported they repulsed nearly 1,000 North Vietnamese regulars who partly overran a government base camp on the Cambodian frontier 60 miles north of Saigon, in an attack before dawn.

U.S. marine outposts just south of the zone and inflicting mounting casualties on the Americans.

LAGOS (AP) — The Nigerian Federation and secessionist Biafra claimed successes Tuesday on the sixth day of their civil war as the federal government said its forces had killed white mercenaries fighting with the secessionists and had captured arms made in Czechoslovakia.

The U.S. embassy was skeptical of the report on the mercenaries because, it said, it does not believe any are fighting on the side of Biafra's ground forces.

The embassy expressed concern, however, over a report that an American was flying an old, U.S.-made B-26 for Biafra, the Eastern region which seceded from the Nigerian Federation last month.

ALL FRONTS

Meanwhile, a secessionist broadcast said Biafra troops were advancing on all fronts.

A federal government statement said the white mercenaries were among three companies of 300 men destroyed last weekend. It put government casualties at six dead and 12 wounded.

The government newspaper, New Nigerian, of Kaduna in northern Nigeria, said 10 men enemies were killed when the three companies were wiped out near Nukku, 15 miles inside Biafra.

Nauka is considered the gateway to Biafra's capital at Enugu, 40 miles to the south. The government claimed Nauka was under siege and being shelled.

The New Nigerian said a secessionist officer in the Biafra army had defected. He was named as Brig. George Kurubo, who had been logistics officer for Lt.-Col. Oduemegwu Ukwu's regime in Biafra. Kurubo, who commanded the federation's air force until last August, fled when an army uprising brought Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon to power in Nigeria.

Burmese Demonstrate Against China, Mao

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Nation-wide demonstrations against Communist China swept Burma Monday and an angry crowd in the capital burned an effigy of Burmese Communist Party leader Than Tun.

A government spokesman said 330,000 demonstrators staged rallies in 56 towns and villages denouncing Communist China. The spokesman said the demonstrators included Chinese born in Burma.

In Rangoon thousands of Burmese paraded through the streets shouting slogans against Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and burned effigies of Tun and two other Burmese Communists now in Peking.

The government announced that 200 automatic rifles were confiscated from a house in the capital's Chinatown section but said there was no "significant insurgent action" in Burma. A spokesman denied reports a Vietnam-type guerrilla war was underway in Burma.

Diplomats Retired

ATHENS (AP) — Five Greek ambassadors in key posts were placed in retirement in a major shakeup of the diplomatic service, the military-led regime announced Monday.

A reliable source said more ambassadors were soon due to be relieved of their duties. The military junta gave no reason for the forced retirements, but the ambassadors' loyalty to the dictatorship had been in question since the April 21 coup.

Canada and the ABM

AGAINST THOSE in the United States who would deploy a strong anti-ballistic-missile (ABM) system to defend the main centres of population against nuclear attack, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has argued that this would be a colossal waste of money. By installing the anti-missile missiles and all their appurtenances at a cost of as much as $40 billion, the United States in his view—well backed by realistic calculations—would merely start a race to build up American and Soviet offensive capacity to the point where there would be no gain in security in either land; where more than half the population of each would die, as now, in a nuclear exchange.

This is a cogent argument, and one that should be appreciated by Canadians, for if Mr. McNamara loses in the continuing debate, this country could have considerably less security than it has at present. Or alternatively it could have the presumably enormous expense of sharing in the ABM system and providing the fallout shelter that would be an essential part of it—also with no eventual gain in protection if the U.S. defence secretary is right.

It may be reckoned that Canadian security would suffer in event of war if the United States went ahead with anti-missiles without Canadian participation; though either in Canada might not be the target of incoming missiles from the north, many if not most of the nuclear explosions of the anti-missile sent to destroy them would almost certainly be over Canadian territory, and we would receive the brunt of the deadly fallout.

Thus from the Canadian point of view the status quo would seem preferable to new competition in nuclear missile defence and missile offensive capacity between the United States and the Soviet Union. And if Mr. McNamara's argument does not prevail, it also appears that this country will face problems concerning sovereignty, nuclear-club membership and defence expenditure beside which the debate of yesteryear over the anti-bomber Bomarc will pale.

Neither Canada's membership in the North American Air Defence Command nor the re-signing of the NORAD agreement, according to Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, would automatically compel this country to take part in an ABM program, although he added in debate on defence estimates, "I have no doubt, in view of the close co-operation between our two countries, that the United States would make it possible for Canada to opt in if at any time we felt it was in the interest of our country to do so."

There is no question therefore but that if the pro-ABM contenders in the United States win out, Canada's parliamentarians will be in for a period of most important discussion and decision-making.

Self-Delusion

NEITHER THE MOVEMENT of Russian warships into Egyptian waters nor their commander's statement that they are there to assist President Nasser's forces to "repel any aggression" need be viewed with much alarm by the non-Arab world. It is but a face-saving gesture.

Despite the boastful insistence of some observers that the Soviet Union suffered a major diplomatic defeat in the Middle East, the cold truth is that the setback it received in this area of international politics was no worse than the treatment meted out to the Western-aligned governments.

Certainly none of the great or middle powers on either side of the Iron Curtain has had its own way in the matter. The best that can be said for any of them is that their leaders managed to keep their heads sufficiently to prevent the war from spreading beyond the actual physical theatre of operations.

And this in itself was no mean accomplishment and reflects credit upon all those involved—including Russia who displayed her responsibility in at least one instance by not applying the veto in the Security Council and in another by not taking some unilateral action which could have worsened an already serious situation.

The Middle East war brought victory to Israel alone. Any other nation which now claims to be standing in the winners' circle—morally, diplomatically or militarily—is simply deluding itself.

The Straitjacket

BACK FROM DINING with the Queen and Prince Philip during their smash hit in Ottawa the premier reveals that he has invited them to come to British Columbia in 1971 when the next centennial will envelop us—that marking the 100th anniversary of the province's entry into Confederation.

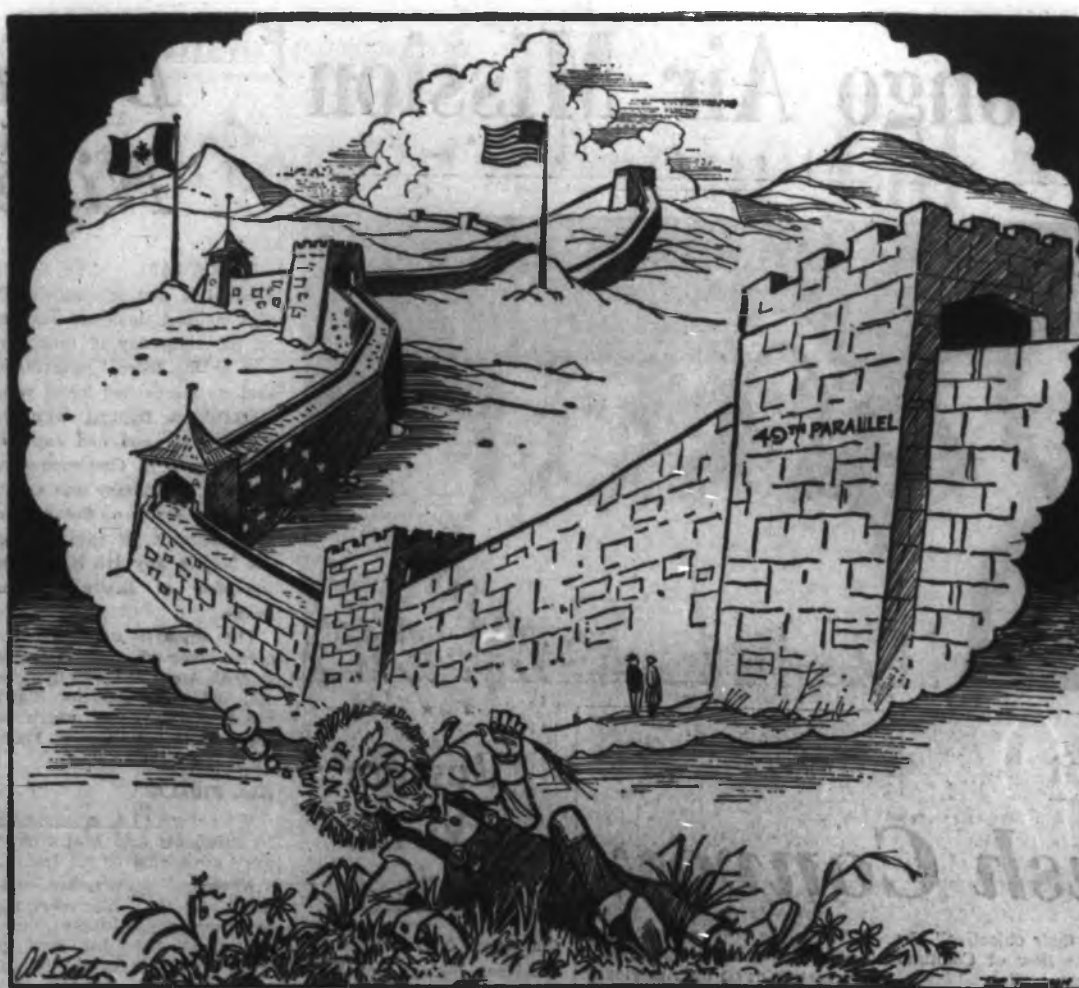

It is an imaginative idea also to propose that the royal yacht Britannia be sent ahead of them so the royal visitors could cruise in B.C. waters, a nice variation of the pattern of royal visits which would enable coastal residents to tender a welcome in their own sea-girt towns.

The enthusiastic reception accorded the Queen in the national capital, and at Expo 67—after officialdom loosened the security bars to let the monarch see her Canadian subjects and be seen by them at close range—induces Premier Bennett to take the opportunity of indicating the press for suggesting the existence of any anti-monarchical bias in this country.

The answer to this is that had there not been overt talk and action in this direction the press would never have reported it. And by the initial fencing-in of the royal couple at Expo officialdom betrayed its own fears, happily unwarranted.

The premier says that once the politicians, the bureaucrats and the press stopped hemming in the Queen and her consort the people of Canada showed tremendous enthusiasm for the monarch and the throne she occupies. Here also it can be said it is not the press that assigns police and troops and takes other measures to prevent intimate citizen acquaintance with the Queen but the political authorities who surround her with so much precaution and protocol as to separate her from people gladly anxious to get near her.

Mr. Bennett is in a good position to cure what he complains of, however. In preparation for this expected 1971 occasion, he should be able to enjoin that a greater degree of informality invests the Queen's visit to B.C. than is usually the case. The monarchy will thrive best when it is freed from the security straitjacket that obviously irks her and Prince Philip, and when the royal couple can mingle more easily with those she has come to call on.

Midsummer Dream

Strong Government in Greece

New Regime May Act on Cyprus

By VICTOR B. WALKER from Athens

A NEW attempt — and one with greater hope of success than any that have gone before — may be made soon to solve the long drawn out Cyprus issue.

For more than 10 years now the Cyprus dispute has poisoned relations between Greece and Turkey.

As the lines are drawn at present, Athens seeks enosis (union) of Cyprus with Greece, with adequate guarantees for the Turkish minority on the island. It points to the example of the Dodecanese islands and Western Thrace as evidence that the Turkish community on Cyprus need have nothing to fear from Greek rule.

Greece insists on either the status quo, with Cyprus remaining independent, or partition of the island as a prelude to "double enosis," the Greek part joining Greece and the Turkish part joining Turkey.

Greece rules out both partition and any question of territorial concessions elsewhere in exchange for Turkish agreement to the union of the whole of Cyprus with Greece.

While the stalemate continues, an uneasy peace is maintained on Cyprus by the multinational United Nations Peace Force, which has been on the island since intercommunal fighting broke out in December 1963.

Several attempts have been made in the last three years to break the deadlock by negotiations. Except that these have probably averted renewed fighting, with the nightmare possibility of a Greek-Turkish war, none has advanced the problem itself one inch nearer to a definitive solution.

Now, several factors are operating in favor of a new attempt. For one thing, there is the composition and nature of the Greek government formed after the army seized power on April 21.

In the past, the Turks have on several occasions questioned the value of negotiations with an "adversary" whose governments are overthrown every few months. Once, Ankara openly requested a guarantee that anything agreed with the Greek government of the moment would be upheld by its successor.

Now Ankara — itself under a strong, army-sponsored government — no longer has to worry, as can be seen by the ability of the Athens government to enforce its will in Greece.

The other side of the same coin is that Greece now has a government that does not depend for its stay in power on a vote in Parliament, not even on election by the Greek people. Politics have been abolished, leaving the Greek government free to govern as it thinks best for the nation.

So, both governments are now able to take decisions, make them stick, and know that the other government can make them stick, too.

It is this in the general situation, there were two indications in the latter half of June that something may be about to develop.

First, considerable publicity was given in the controlled Greek press to a "hope" by the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers, meeting in Luxembourg, that Greece and Turkey will resume discussions on the Cyprus question and Greek-Turkish relations in general, and that "this will rapidly have positive results."

Since the Greek government seized power partly in the name of attachment to the Atlantic Alliance, an attachment which would allegedly have been threatened had the aborted May elections brought to power the Centre forces of George and Andreas Papandreu, Athens may be expected to listen to such a call.

The two countries constitute the southeastern wing of NATO, and the interest of both in the security of the Eastern flank to its full effectiveness in this area.

Also, all Athens newspapers were required to publish, in identical terms, a warning by "an authoritative (Greek) government source."

Referring to "articles and comments in certain Cypriot newspapers (that) have caused strong indignation in Greece," the "source" went on to warn "these spurious and subversive attempts to undermine the unity of Hellenism" that "they are no longer tolerated."

"They are warned in good time that their actions will not be forgotten when the great hour of the materialization of the Panhellenic aspirations comes," the warning concluded. The warning was apparently aimed at those in Cyprus, mainly leftists but including some officials close to the president, Archbishop Makarios, who have opposed the army takeover in Greece and blown cold on the idea of union with a country not enjoying a parliamentary regime.

It probably means nothing more than it seems to suggest: that Greece is about to make a new attempt at a negotiated settlement of the issue, and wants no best-rocking on the island.

But it is also not impossible that a more drastic action may be pressed.

The Greek army contingent on Cyprus, under Greek Gen. George Grivas, probably has the means, if it received the order, to seize power in Nicosia. Then a simultaneous proclamation of union in Nicosia and Athens would cut the ground from under any Cypriots who might seek to object. And Gen. Grivas did no more than protest the Greek government would become overnight one of the most popular in this country has ever had.

It seems unlikely that such a dangerous course would be attempted by the Athens government, at least not unless negotiations with Ankara had failed in the meantime.

But the knowledge that the new Greek government has proved its ability to take decisive action when it deems the situation requires it may prove useful in future negotiations with the Turks, and in dampening opposition to the Greek government in Cyprus itself.

Japan and the Bomb

An Acceleration in Rearmament

By THOMAS LAND from London

(Second of two articles.)

JAPAN has got around the controversial Clause 9 (the "no-war" clause) in its constitution by renouncing, on paper, the maintenance of regular armed forces in the country. In practice, however, the nation's so-called Self Defence Force is one of the most efficient armies in the world.

The peace clause, inserted in the constitution at the insistence of General MacArthur, was accepted by the war-weary world as a triumph for the United States' Far East policy.

Yet it was the U.S. which first sought a way around it when Washington decided to include Japan in its Asian defence machinery aimed at "containing" communism. Thus the withdrawal of the American occupation forces after the war coincided with a limited process of Japanese rearmament, despite left-wing protests that it breached the constitution.

Washington Calling

U.S. Medicare Judged a Success

By MARQUIS CHILDS

At least two others should accomplish. His report on the first 13 months of the program with impressive statistics—4,000,000 persons for in-patient hospital services; $2.4 billion paid to hospitals for these services; 25,000,000 doctor bills for which $940,000,000 was paid out.

To put 19,000,000 people under a program entirely new to American medical practice and organized by a large part of the organized medical profession as a socialist intrusion on the free way of life was no small task. As President Johnson has said, this is the country's greatest single civilian undertaking since the Second World War.

Small wonder that Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball is proud of what he and his staff have been able to

The gloom and doom opponents of Medicare predicted that so many people over 65 would rush to the hospitals for free service that hospital care would inevitably break down. This has not happened. The expected increase has been within reasonable limits, according to Ball.

There has been a 15 to 20 per cent increase in hospital use by those qualifying under Medicare but this has resulted in less than a 5 per cent increase in total hospital use.

The president with his extraordinary capacity for spreading his interest far and wide, together with his driving energy, has helped to nurse the program along. He was determined to bring into active cooperation groups, such as the American Medical Association, that had fought Medicare. Under his direction Social Security contracted with Blue Cross, Blue Shield and 27 commercial insurance companies to administer both the hospital and the doctors' service phases.

Not the least of the achievement is the integration of the hospitals as required under the Civil Rights Act before they could benefit from Medicare. Of 6,550 hospitals throughout the country only 146 cannot qualify. Of the latter 63 are in Mississippi, 21 in Alabama and the rest scattered throughout the South.

This is a revolution in custom and behavior. Blacks and whites share rooms in Southern hospitals. Where Negro doctors qualify they serve on hospital staffs.

At the start of Medicare delays in the repayment to individuals for what they had paid out to doctors, unwilling to accept responsibility for collecting directly from Social Security, caused hardships. Older people on small incomes had to borrow money to meet these obligations while they waited often for months to be reimbursed. Ball says that the waiting time has now been reduced to days instead of weeks in virtually every state. There are still problems in administering certain outpatient phases of Medicare, with the need perhaps to make minor changes in the law.

With these minor qualifications the overwhelming fact is that millions of Americans are getting quality medical care, many of them for the first time in their lives. They are getting it as a right grounded in the Social Security system and not, as the American Medical Association would have it in its swing toward reaction, as a privilege. Nor is there evidence that the program has contributed substantially to the spiraling costs of medical care.

Stocks Depleted

Decline of Whaling

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Oslo

ONE of the last Norwegian whaling factory ships has been converted into an oil-boring platform. It is a sign of the times. Whales made millions of Norwegian shipowners, but the near-extinction of profitable species has hit the hunters.

The catcher ships and factory ships have all but disappeared from the great whaling ports of Sandefjord and Tonsberg, near Oslo. There was a time when a dozen factory ships and 150 catchers would work the Arctic; this coming season, the numbers will be down to two factory ships and 20 catchers.

Although catches are now limited by international agreement, control has come too late and, in the opinion of some marine biologists, too mildly.

The blue whale, the largest known and the staple catch for decades, is now completely protected. There is some hope that extinction will be avoided, but catching will probably be forbidden for 10 years. Another once profitable species, the sperm whale, has also been disastrously thinned.

The remaining species capable of commercial exploitation is the sei whale, a relative of the blue whale. The annual quota is 30,000, of which the Norwegian share amounts to about 17,000. As the whales retreat, the demand for their meat rises. The Japanese are chiefly responsible. Their diet lacks protein because of a shortage of grazing and cattle, and whale meat has become one of the few economic means of curing the deficiency. And as other Asiatic nations require more protein in their diet, the temptation to catch more whales will be likely to grow.

It was the invention of the modern harpoon gun that threatened the existence of the whale. They became vulnerable at long range, and speed in swimming and diving no longer meant safety.

The best gunners used to come from Leth, in Scotland, but a famous school there developed in Tonsberg. Their earnings in the heyday of Antarctic whaling were fabulous. Even now, a gunner may make $9,000 to $12,000 in a season.

The harpoon is a cruel weapon. Whales have brains as large in proportion to their bulk as those of men, and rather more complicated. Their nervous systems are more highly developed, too, and they undoubtedly suffer when harpooned.

Whales show emotion. The most highly developed appears to be the infamous killer whale, a carnivorous beast with three-inch teeth, that preys on large fish and other whales. It prefers whale tongue and often extracts it from carcasses moored to factory ships. Yet one studied in captivity was found to be humorous, playful and affectionate.

Blue whales and sei whales live on plankton. Instead of teeth, they have baleen, the whalebone plates that filter out larger marine creatures. The sperm whale, a deep diving species, has teeth, and eats squids, but little is known of its habits and breeding. Some Norwegian experts believe that it could be caught on a large scale again without its existence being threatened.

Apart from the meat, oil still has a ready market. It is used in the manufacture of margarine. But prices have fallen. Ambergris, for which whales used to be slaughtered in their thousands and the rest of their carcasses abandoned, now possesses little value. Ambergris is used in cosmetics to retain the strength of perfume. It is a grey secretion in a whale's stomach, and, in some species may weigh up to 600 pounds. It is now manufactured synthetically.

Canal Treaty

Fresh Deal For Panama

From The Oregonian

WHILE terms of the proposed new Canal Zone treaty between the United States and the Republic of Panama remain officially secret, already it is under attack by some political groups and members of Congress who believe they can guess what's in it.

President Johnson really gave away the show back in December, 1964, when he announced this country was ready to tear up the 1903 treaty and replace it with a new agreement to satisfy major objections from Panamanians who feel the old treaty hurts their nation both in its pride and its pocketbook.

Panama believes the 1903 treaty violates its national sovereignty, while at the same time depriving it of its moral right to profit from its geographic asset as the logical place for a canal linking the Atlantic and the Pacific. It regards the canal as a great money-maker, and feels it is not getting much of the money. It is unimpressed by the bookkeeping of the U.S. government corporation, the Panama Canal Company, which shows the canal nets only about $4.5 million a year on gross earnings of $85 million. It believes the rates are deliberately kept artificially low, and that the company wrongly charges on the expense side of the ledger the cost of carrying on non-canal functions.

Under the treaty Panama receives $2 million a year as rental for the Canal Zone, a narrow strip on either side of the big ditch. This is the figure Panamanians look to, and they dispute the Canal Company's calculations that the nation receives, directly and indirectly, about $110 million a year as a result of canal operations.

There are many intangible factors in the disagreement. Proud Panamanians dislike the sovereignty clause in the 1903 treaty making the Zone in effect a strip of foreign territory running through the middle of their country. They are irked by the American flag flying over the Zone, by the U.S. postage stamps on letters mailed in it, by the U.S. guards patrolling its gates and fences. They want a share in the business activity in the Zone, where the Canal Company now controls all retail stores and personal services.

The one thing Panama really fears is to push the United States too far, lest this country abandon the canal and replace it with a new one in an adjoining country. The present Panama Canal is too narrow, too expensive for ships in terms of tolls and wasted time, and too expensive to operate. It has three times as many employees as the Suez Canal, and if replaced by a sea level canal would become a useless relic instead of a source of Panamanian income. Hence it is to Panama's advantage to work out a compromise treaty giving itself only part of what it really would like to have.

It's a good guess the treaty will yield sovereignty over the Canal Zone to Panama, give Panamanians full employment rights and business opportunities in the Zone, and a bigger revenue share. In exchange, the United States will get the right to build a new sea level canal in Panama. One could be built alongside the existing canal for about $2 billion, with little interruption in service. Modern excavation techniques make it possible today what was not possible when the old canal was built. It would take a long time to amortize such an investment, and it should not be undertaken without a treaty calculated to assure a permanent and harmonious relationship between the signers.

Document Indicts South African Jail System

By ADAM HOPKINS
From London

A massive indictment of the South African prison system, based on the testimony of former political prisoners, has come to the London Sunday Times.

The test of this long, complex and often horrifying document provides a striking parallel to allegations made in the Rand Daily Mail and the Johannesburg Sunday Times, which seriously embarrassed the South African government and recently provoked it to take court action against five South African newspapers, including The Guardian, a trenchant critic of government policies.

The document, drawn up by the International Defence and Aid Fund, an organization prescribed in South Africa, will be sent to governments, the International Red Cross and the UN Human Rights Commission.

It provides an explosive background to the court actions in South Africa which have arisen out of allegations in the newspapers in 1985.

The original articles have already resulted in the conviction and imprisonment on a variety of charges of four of the principal informants of the two newspapers. The new court actions, two years after publication, are against executives and staffs of the newspapers.

The action against Benjamin Pogrand, who also represents the London Sunday Times, was taken in apparent haste after he had notified his intention of leaving the country.

The testimony of the ex-prisoners in the defence and aid document includes many instances of gratuitous brutality by prison staff, the degrading and sometimes indecent treatment of prisoners, shortage of food, clothing and blankets.

The report starts with the findings of the International Red Cross investigation conducted in May, 1984, by Dr. George Hoffman and published two and a half years later, with comments by the South African government.

It provides evidence to supplement Dr. Hoffman's findings on major issues such as brutality, ill-treatment, the arguments of the South African government.

The report adduces evidence to show that South African prison regulations do not conform to international standards and that the regulations themselves are often not observed.

South African prison regulations, quoted in the report, call for "firmness of discipline but with no more restraint than is necessary for proper safe custody and the orderly community life of the prison or group concerned."

Dr. Hoffman was told during his investigations by a number of senior officials that violence towards prisoners was not allowed.

Thami Mhlambiso was a prisoner of Leeuwkop 19 months after it was visited by Dr. Hoffman. (Two prisoners of five interviewed by Hoffman at Leeuwkop, without witnesses, complained about occasional beatings by warders.)

Mhlambiso alleges that a prison officer violently interfered with the sexual organs of the prisoners in his cell. This was accompanied by crude jokes.

At breakfast, the prisoners were obliged to pick up hot coffee at the run. "Any sign or tendency to slacken earned one a whipping by a cane or baton strap."

Next, prisoners ran past a counter to pick up hot plates of porridge as these were slapped down. "If one missed the catch, then it meant no food for that one," says Mhlambiso.

According to Dennis Brutus the same method of issuing rations was in practice during his imprisonment at Leeuwkop at an earlier period. Brutus's evidence refers to a warder who called prisoners towards him only to kick them in the groin as they approached.

At Robben Island, off Cape Town, three out of seven political prisoners picked at random by Dr. Hoffman in 1984 complained of beatings by warders. The commanding officer of the prison stated that beatings of prisoners was prohibited and that two warders had been reprimanded.

The South African government said, among other things: "Assaults on prisoners are regarded in an extremely serious light by the prison authorities. The policy is that every alleged assault is thoroughly investigated..."

Dennis Brutus gives this account of some events on Robben Island: "On the day after our arrival, we were assaulted in the quarry. I also witnessed a vicious assault against the Maseko group just before this."

"From the windows of a cell we saw dozens of prisoners running wildly or crawling vainly under barbed wire fences while the baton staves or pick handles of the warders fell indiscriminately and mercilessly."

"When we were taken into the quarry we were made to carry large stones at great speed, and beaten if we walked or ran too slowly, or if the stones were not big enough, or if we had not carried enough — any pretext, in fact, for beating us. The warders used batons, leather straps and sticks and building planks."

Maseko sued the Minister of Justice for assault. The case was settled out of court and compensation was paid to Maseko.

Brutus states that two months after he reported a serious assault on himself, which led to hospital treatment, he was told the statement had been lost and he was asked to make another.

At Voorsburg prison, Kroonstad, five out of six prisoners interviewed complained to Dr. Hoffman of "beating, smacking and bad language." The commanding officer stated that any kind of assault was forbidden.

In several important fields the defence and aid report presents testimony to correct any false impression that Hoffman may have received on his visits, for which, it is alleged, the prisoners were specially prepared.

Diet, medical facilities, the supply of clothes and blankets, hygiene and toilet arrangements all emerge, according to the evidence, as less adequate than Dr. Hoffman supposed.

One main charge against the South African government is that in commenting on the fundamental Red Cross proposals for the separation of political and common law prisoners it evaded the issue by attempting to deal with the question in terms of the normal classification of prisoners. The report described this as "pretending there are no political prisoners in South Africa."

But the major attack is directed against the government's claim that its prisons are ordered according to accepted international standards. This is untrue, says the report.

In the first place, the system is founded on apartheid, with racial discrimination applied to food, clothing and privileges.

Punishments are wildly out of line with international practice.

And the use of chains and leg irons is specifically prohibited by the international standard minimum rules to which South Africa claims that she adheres.

If Nasser Sells His Soul ...

Russia May Emerge As Mideast Winner

By PHIL NEWSOM
From London

Despite obvious setbacks for Soviet policy in the Middle East, the Soviets may be closer to winning their Mideast objectives than yet has appeared on the surface.

Soviet leaders are still committed to aid the Arabs and will continue a gradual flow of arms as well as all possible diplomatic support.

The Russians probably will insist on sending advisers to Egypt and Syria to train Arab officers in the use of sophisticated weapons.

They will also seek some kind of political control so as not to be faced with the accomplished facts such as Nasser did to them twice last month: once, when he asked removal of UN peacekeeping forces and secondly when he blockaded the Gulf of Aqaba.

The result of such a policy will depend upon the extent to which President Nasser is willing to sell his soul to the devil in his own desperate efforts to retain Arab leadership.

If he accedes to such a demand, then, to all intents and purposes, the name United Arab Republic might as well be changed to "United Arab People's Republic" since its policies would be totally subservient to the Soviet Union.

The rewards for the Soviet Union would be obvious since they then would have leap-frogged Turkey and Iran and obtained control of the water passageway from the eastern Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf which Russia always has desired.

The last 10 days have seen other important, although little noted, events in the Mideast situation.

In an action heralded as another defeat for the Russians, the United Nations security council approved a suggestion from Secretary General Thant that UN observers be placed on both sides of the Suez canal line separating Israeli and Egyptian troops.

Both sides had indicated they also would accept the suggestion.

Little noted in the action was the fact that by the UN accepted at least temporarily a status quo which no longer attempted to force the Israelis back to old truce lines.

It further suggested that the long, hot summer in the Mideast probably will extend into a long, hot winter.

As for the Israelis, they continue about their business. Water mains, telephones and other utilities between old and new Jerusalem have been linked and the Arab police of old Jerusalem absorbed into the Israeli force.

The action lent force to previously announced Israeli plans to hold on to the old city and was further evidence of Israeli long-time planning and efficiency.

Peking Too Occupied To 'Take' Hong Kong

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY, from London

Mao Tse-tung once said he needs to make only one telephone call to oust the British from Hong Kong.

With Hong Kong's troubles again taking a turn for the worse, the inevitable question arises: Has Mao, at last, picked up the phone?

British officials say they do not think that he has. There are signs that Peking is fully occupied in trying to control the cultural revolution that has uprooted so many young Communists and inflicted so much damage on China's economy.

This hardly seems the time for Mao to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs—Hong Kong supplies China with $250,000,000 ($750,000,000) or more in much-needed foreign exchange each year.

Officials also profess to be not overly disturbed that Chinese authorities have failed to reply to Hong Kong's request for additional water. They emphasized that China has delivered all the water for which it has contracted. There is no indication Peking will refuse to renew the water agreement on the regular date, Oct. 1.

Hong Kong, meanwhile, can get along with water rationing which will not be any more severe than was imposed by natural drought causes in 1963-64. Rainfall at Hong Kong is only one-half of the annual average so far this year, and drought conditions probably prevailed in some South China areas as well as Hong Kong.

Edmund demanding that he substantiate or retract.

Sir Edmund said he was not referring to any specific government, but beyond that declined to withdraw any part of his statement.

He added: "Having now been berated by the prime minister and his colleagues I suppose the only thing left for me to do is to retreat to the Antarctic and commune with the seals — when you kick them in the stomach they just grunt and go back to sleep."

But the public shows more sign of wanting to draft Sir Edmund into Parliament.

Many writers declare the world needs more Hillarys to recall statesmen to a sense of morality in government. Sir Edmund has recalled all in public office to a sense of political integrity which they would do well to heed, several letters say.

And in spite of government indignation, debates in Parliament indicate that the point has struck home. Almost every speech since Sir Edmund's remark has made some reference to the need for fair dealing between government and people.

Leaders Rise to 'Honesty in Government' Bait

Hillary's Plea Creates Furore

By J. C. GRAHAM
From Auckland

Sir Edmund Hillary, famous mountaineer and polar explorer, has caused a furore in New Zealand with a plea for more honesty in government.

The remark might well have passed unnoticed had not government leaders chosen to interpret it personally and make angry rejoinders.

The result has been a deluge of support for Sir Edmund. Newspapers have been overwhelmed with letters declaring that he had put into words what many had long been thinking.

At one time Sir Edmund was strongly urged to enter politics but decided against it.

The comment which raised all the fuss was in a speech at a Rotary luncheon for school prefects. He told the young people:

"What I hope is that this generation can bring a little more honest-to-God morality into politics and government at all levels, nationally and internationally.

"Expediency and just plain dishonesty of utterance are recorded in our newspapers every day."

"It horrifies me the way a head of state can in one moment deny vehemently that his country is carrying out some particular action — and then a couple of days later, and with complete calmness, admit the whole thing."

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake reacted indignantly, saying that the charges were baseless. The most charitable impression he could put on Sir Edmund's action was that he had made his sweeping, baseless charges without due thought or in order to get cheap publicity, he said.

Electricity Minister T. P. Shand was even more incensed. He telegraphed Sir

Du Pont:

Tariff Pact Gamble For Canada

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The first really adverse comment about the Kennedy Round was it affects the Canadian economy comes, strangely enough, from an economist in one of Canada's largest U.S.-controlled manufacturing companies.

R. B. MacPherson, of Du Pont of Canada, says the new agreement is a "great gamble" for Canada, and he doubts whether the advantages won for the primary industries will counteract the blows that will be suffered by secondary industry.

Up to now, most comments on the Kennedy Round have been hopelessly optimistic, or at least acknowledging the fact they present great opportunities for those able to grasp them.

BLUNT VIEW

Mr. MacPherson has no such inhibitions. He says bluntly that primary industry has gained concessions at the expense of secondary industry, and that as the latter is the one which is capable of generating large employment opportunities, the over-all result for Canada is not likely to be favorable.

He expects Canada to face a growing volume of unemployment as the Kennedy Round becomes effective.

U.S. FAVOR

The easing of the restrictions on dumping articles into Canada, at prices lower than they sell in the country of origin, also worries the Du Pont man deeply.

The chemical industry is one in which the tariff wall is steeper on the U.S. side than it is on the Canadian. The Kennedy Round accentuates the difference in the U.S. favor.

THE MACHO BEEKS

It did not take investors long to decide from which shelf they would purchase their new Canada bonds.

They went strongly for the higher coupon bonds, with $85,000,000 going into the 6 per cent of 1971 and $70,000,000 into the 5 per cent of 1969.

Only $20,000,000 of the $175,000,000 was taken out in the 5 per cent of 1968.

Sea Otter Will Return

B.C. and Ottawa are getting together on a unique centennial project designed to bring back the nearly extinct sea otter to Canada's west coast.

Federal and provincial wildlife management officials will go to Alaska this fall to trap a number of sea otter and bring them to release sites in B.C.

A federal fisheries research vessel, fitted with special tanks to provide an ample supply of clean ocean water at controlled temperature, will be used to transport the catch.

Recreation Minister Kiernan said Tuesday studies have been under way for the past several months. Past attempts to transport sea otter have shown this highly adapted animal is sensitive to removal from its environment.

"The sea otter played a prominent role in the early exploration of this coast and their re-establishment would seem a fitting centennial project," Kiernan said.

The sea otter was exterminated from the coast of British Columbia during the late 1800s by excessive exploitation of its valuable fur and by the ease with which it could be caught.

BANK IN DANGER

The Bank of Western Canada is believed to be lagging in its efforts to find Western owners for the 50.2 per cent of its shares now held by York Lambton Corp.

Unless the shares are sold by next week it is anticipated York Lambton will initiate steps to liquidate the bank.

It is planning to make an official announcement to this effect in the Canada Gazette of July 22.

SAME PRICE

To give the bank a chance of continuing to function, York Lambton offered its $5,500,000 worth of Bank of Western Canada shares at $15 — the price paid by it when the bank was capitalized.

A group endeavoring to "save the bank" recently made a tour of western Canada — including Victoria — in an effort to find enough businessmen willing to take over the shares.

They have been discouraged by the fact that the market price for the bank shares is only $11.50, or $3.50 less than the price York Lambton wants for them.

STORE'S PROFITS UP

Net profit of Shop and Save for the year ended March 22 was $386,980 (82 cents), compared with $759,812 (72 cents) in the previous fiscal year.

The 14-per-cent increase came from higher sales, which reached a record $83,629,854, compared with $55,960,002 a year ago.

OIL TROUBLE GROWS

As Britain's oil supply situation deteriorates, preparations for introduction of gasoline rationing this fall become increasingly probable, it is believed in London.

The latest trouble spot has arisen in Nigeria where the Shell-BP group acquires part of its supply.

The group's plant and oil fields in Biafra may be endangered unless a token payment of $700,000 for a six-month period is made to the rebel Biafra government.

Nigeria at present gets the total Nigeria-Biafra royalties, amounting to more than $2,000,000 a month, and it is urging the British government not to allow the Shell-BP group to make the payment to the rebel government in Biafra.

NOT FOLLOWING U.S.

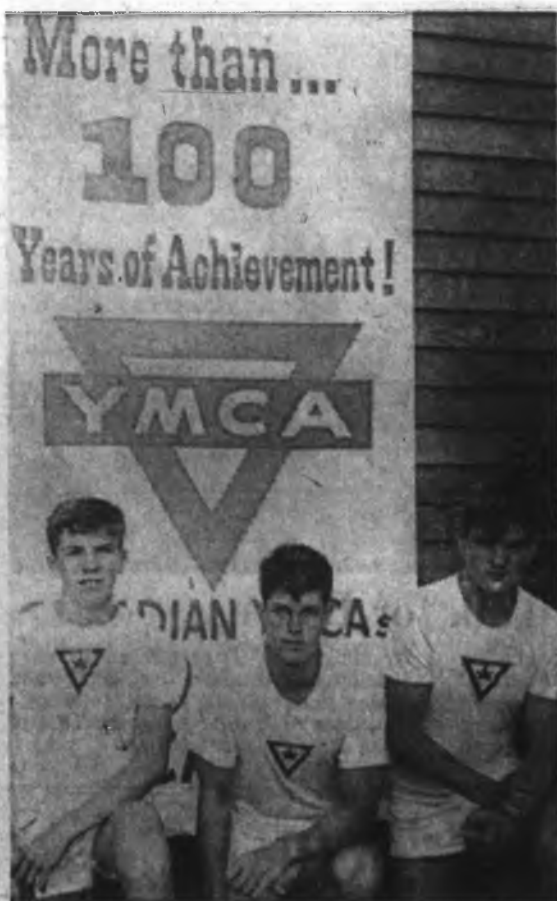

Britain has arranged to make a Kennedy Round tariff cuts on the same dates as the countries of the European Common Market and will not follow the U.S. pattern, it is stated by the Board of Trade in London.

The British will make a cut of two-fifths on July 1, 1968, and cuts of one-fifth on Jan. 1, 1970, 1971 and 1972.

The U.S. is to make a cut of one-fifth on each New Year's Day from 1968 to 1972.

Bennett Belittles Carter Package

The Carter commission recommendations on taxation are dead as a package deal, Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

The premier said in an interview some of the recommendations may be implemented individually, because they represent public thinking, but he declined to state which ones.

He told reporters he reached these conclusions after discussions with other provincial premiers during his visit to Ontario last week.

Bennett was asked if he felt the federal government would reject the Carter recommendations or merely pigeon-hole the entire report.

"I'm not saying what the federal government will do," he replied. "But it is not acceptable to the Canadian people. However, I'm not saying certain things can't be done. Some of the recommendations have been in the public mind and are not new. But I don't want to go into detail."

The premier also said he believed the Carter recommendations taken as a package deal would "hurt jobs" in B.C. and across Canada because they would impair resource development by removing tax incentives.

'Strange Perversion of Logic'

Reaction to Arrests Puzzles Mayor

The "great burst of moral indignation" which has followed the arrest of three hippies in Victoria was beyond the understanding of Mayor Hugh Stephen Tuesday.

In a letter to James R. Bigsby, 223 Moss Street, a Canadian University Service Overseas volunteer who is preparing to leave for work in Africa, the mayor said that it was a "strange perversion of logic" that last year in Victoria some 50 persons were prosecuted under the vagrancy law and were sentenced to 10 days each. The third pleaded innocence. Trial was set for July 24.

In a letter to the mayor Mr. Bigsby called a vagrancy law "a violation of the principles of our system of justice." He feared that police enforced the law because they feared that someone without money was liable to commit a crime.

"If a man is innocent until proven guilty surely he is innocent when there is no crime of which to be guilty," said Mr. Bigsby.

In view of the fact that there was no outcry when 50 people were charged with vagrancy last year, said Mayor Stephen in his reply, it seemed that some people were now suggesting that it was because the young men had long hair that they should be treated preferentially in the public mind and are not new. But I don't want to go into detail.

Earlier he pointed out that the law of vagrancy was part of the Criminal Code and so a federal statute. He had no power to alter such a law and he suggested that if Mr. Bigsby wanted the law amended he should approach his member of Parliament.

Violence, Curfew Halt All Hong Kong Buses

HONG KONG (AP) — A government curfew halted all Hong Kong's public transport Tuesday night in the face of terrorist attacks by Communist-led mobs of Chinese who pressed an anti-British campaign with knives, torches and explosives.

Immobilization of the buses and street cars in the British colony was one aim of the mobs, which were trying to make a transport strike 100-per-cent effective.

Crude bombs were hurled in the streets, one at riot police. Armed demonstrators, some wearing gas masks, had stopped and set fire to buses moving in defiance of Communist orders for the strike.

Police fought back with clubs and tear gas. They fired carbines and rifle shots over the heads of one mob.

Three rioters were wounded slightly.

The latest outbreaks, begun last Saturday, have attained a ferocity unmatched during riots and demonstrations touched off in May between police and Chinese workers on strike against artificial flower factories on the Kowloon Peninsula, the mainland sector of the colony's 400 square miles.

Mayor Shuns London Bridge Idea

'Can't Engage in This Type of Phony Business'

By KEN WARREN

If Victoria's Mayor Hugh Stephen was offered Brooklyn Bridge for $1 he would probably laugh.

But he wasn't laughing Tuesday when, in all seriousness, much of his city was discussing the possibility of having London Bridge dismantled and reconstructed here over the Inner Harbor as a tourist gimmick.

"It doesn't make sense, having that historic anachronism set down in Victoria for a tourist gimmick," he said.

The mayor's remarks came after a day in which numerous city and provincial leaders, inspired by a news wire story from England that venerable London Bridge might be for sale, had rushed into future Victoria plans for the bridge.

The British story said, "A plan was reported under consideration in London today to save the 135-year-old landmark from being torn down to make way for a new six-lane bridge more capable of handling modern traffic across the River Thames."

The idea is to take the bridge down, stone by stone, and re-erect it elsewhere.

Mayor Stephen said a reconstructed London Bridge "may look absolutely stupid" crossing the Inner Harbor, out of its London setting.

"We can't engage in this type of phony business," he said. "We want Victoria to be remembered as the capital of B.C. and we want our capital developed in context with our city, our scenery and our people."

He suggested that any use which might be made of

Link With Tiny Island Part of Cash Offer

At least one offer of cash—$10,000—has been made by a Greater Victoria businessman toward bringing London Bridge to Vancouver Island.

Bob Wright, manager of Oak Bay Marina, adds a commercially advantageous stipulation to his offer.

He specified that the bridge would have to be reconstructed to cross the channel between Beach Drive and Mary Ted Island—near his business enterprise.

materials comprising London Bridge would have to be done in the form of a lodging, however uncomfortable.

"No matter how uncomfortable it might be, some people would stay there, just to be able to say they had been there."

Ten British journalists, in the mayor's office when he was approached earlier in the day about the bridge, burst out laughing over the proposition.

They were here on a cross-country tour.

But about the same time of day, excitement ran space in much of Victoria.

The wire story had suggested that Canadians might have preference in buying the bridge for the price of dismantling it.

Almost immediately, Sam Lane, Chamber of Commerce tourist industry chairman, sent a cable to England for more information.

"Tremendous idea, if practical," said Mr. Lane. "In connection with our centennial celebration we might get some help with such a project. Perhaps we could get a public subscription."

And Victoria Visitors' Bureau manager Mike Heppel was quickly on the phone to the premier's office, to recreation and conservation deputy minister Ron Worley, and later to Victoria MLA Waldo Skilling.

"It's a terrific idea," he said. "If we can't get the bridge, we should get some blocks from it and set them up on the Causeway as seats."

Highway Minister Gagliardi, in Vancouver and not able to be reached, earlier indicated considerable enthusiasm.

"It would be a fantastic deal for Canada," he was reported as saying. "I would say it would be the greatest possible tourist attraction you could get — to be able to say you have London Bridge."

"I'll certainly ask a few questions. If it seems at all reasonable, I'll take it up with the cabinet."

Nor is the enthusiasm limited to Victoria. News reports say "some people in Winnipeg would like to see London Bridge built up again over the Red River."

Built in 1831, the bridge was designed by Sir John Rennie and opened by King William IV. A bridge has existed on the site for more than 1,000 years.

Special Plan Urged To Save Victims Of Heart Attacks

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of 10 Canadian medical and social service organizations have recommended that selected groups of the public be trained in life-saving techniques for heart-attack victims.

A report by a committee published in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal proposed that "total cardiopulmonary resuscitation" be taught initially to doctors, nurses, dentists and other para-medical personnel and specially trained rescue squads such as firemen and ambulance attendants.

HEART MESSAGE

The course would include external heart massage and mouth-to-mouth or mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration.

The committee also proposed "carefully constructed pilot studies" among selected groups of the public to determine the suitability of a standard instructional program for the "lay population."

ISSUES CAUTION

However, it cautioned against heart-massage techniques being taught "indiscriminately to the general public."

Signatories to the report included the Canadian Heart Foundation, the Canadian Anaesthetists' Society, the College of General Practitioners of Canada, the Canadian Thoracic Society, the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the Canadian Red Cross Society, the National Council of YMCAs, the Royal Life Saving Society of Canada and the St. John Ambulance Association.

EFFECTIVE MEANS

The report said external heart massage has been demonstrated to be an effective means of providing adequate artificial circulation for heart-attack victims.

"It is understandable that tremendous interest has been generated in the lay population at large by the possibility that they might contribute more fully in the fight to save lives by learning and teaching this new technique themselves," the report said.

However, it stressed the differences between artificial respiration for drowning and smoke-inhalation victims and artificial circulation for victims of heart seizures.

While mouth-to-mouth respiration often led to complete recovery of asphyxia cases, heart massage must be quickly followed by hospital treatment in heart-attack cases.

THIRTY MINUTES

"Indeed, if drugs and defibrillation cannot be utilized within 30 minutes," the report said, "very few arrested hearts will recover effective spontaneous function."

There would be "very real dangers" in involving lay personnel without effective training courses, the report said, and it had not yet been determined whether heart massage can be taught effectively to the public at large.

The report said heart massage should never be used when the patient has good color, measurable pulse and reactive pupils.

Kennedy Round Includes Cost

LONDON (CP) — The British government said in a white paper today that Canada will lose a substantial part of its special preferential tariff position in Britain as a result of the Kennedy Round of world tariff bargaining.

"The fact that most of our preferential imports from Canada are industrial means that cuts in the preferences on these imports were substantial, given the wide-ranging cuts in industrial tariffs which were one of the major achievements of the Kennedy Round," the government said.

Israeli Gunners Shoot Down Second Plane

From AP, UPI

UN Secretary-General U. Thant hastened plans Tuesday to get UN peace teams along the Suez Canal before the end of the week as Israel reported another outbreak of air warfare.

Israeli anti-aircraft gunners in Sinai claimed to have shot down a second Egyptian jet since Sunday — this time a Soviet fighter-bomber. The pilot apparently died.

ACCEPT OBSERVERS

Despite continuing tension along the canal ceasefire line, Israel followed Egypt's lead by one day and agreed to accept UN observers along the canal.

But Israel refused to budge from its takeover of the Old City of Jerusalem, advising Thant legislation has been passed to protect holy places.

NEW SESSION

These developments came as the UN General Assembly's Middle East emergency session prepared to resume today after a week-long recess.

While accepting a Security Council resolution for observers, Israel rejected an Assembly appeal that it give up Jerusalem — the issue that is expected to generate the most heat at the Assembly today.

SYRIAN INCIDENTS

Israel also complained Syrian armed forces are crossing their ceasefire line and firing at Israeli forces.

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko conferred with Thant amid reports Russia may urge a new resolution on the Assembly.

In Cairo, three days of summit talks were ended by Klag Hussein of Jordan, Egyptian President Nasser and Algerian President Boumedienne. No statement was issued.

Canada — such as plastics and paper — the cuts will be a good deal less than 50 per cent and in the case of our agricultural imports from Canada only 34 per cent were affected by offers of tariff reductions.

The government said the Commonwealth, which had established a preferential tariff system for member countries in 1933, recognized at the outset that the Kennedy Round of bargaining would result in sweeping tariff reductions, including some reductions in the preferences.

HALF HAM

Our half hams are half of a full ham. This means that no center slices have been removed to be sold at a higher price per pound.

It's important to remember this when you compare prices. When you get less than a full half, from either end of the ham, it should cost you less per pound than for a full half. At Safeway, it does.

'Put Teeth in Bird Laws'

OTTAWA (CP) — Wildlife experts called Tuesday for a study by legal experts to put teeth in a law against illegal possession of migratory birds.

Delegates at the opening session of the federal-provincial wildlife conference called for the study after hearing a report that said the regulations, as currently worded, are virtually impossible to enforce.

J. E. Bryant of the Canadian Wildlife Service said there has been widespread abuse of the regulation prohibiting anyone from possessing a live migratory bird without a permit. The main concern was about persons deliberately capturing wild birds for food or to use as decoys in luring other members of the species in for capture.

The trouble has cropped up because the regulations define a migratory bird as a wild bird, Mr. Bryant said.

DISMISS CHARGES

In one case against 18 persons at Sorel, Que., the charges were thrown out because the Crown was unable to show the birds involved were wild.

One Quebec official estimates that 55 per cent of Quebecers who possess live migratory birds have no permit for them, Mr. Bryant said. This meant a total of about 4,000 people having illegal possession.

Figures were not available for other provinces but the problem seemed to be most serious in Quebec, Mr. Bryant said.

Delegates agreed that legal experts should seek a way to close the loophole.

Mr. Bryant said the regulation is often broken unwittingly by people who find a young abandoned bird or an injured bird in the woods and take it home to raise. They probably did not realize they were breaking the law.

But the main concern was with big operators using the birds illegally.

The conference also discussed use of live birds in training dogs to retrieve.

W. A. Morris of the CWS in Vancouver told of a complaint to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals over one incident because adhesive tapes used to bind down the birds' wings were ripped off after the training sessions, pulling many feathers out.

Mr. Bryant said one Ontario man had rented birds to dog clubs for training purposes and 200 had been killed in seven trials. Both men suggested there should be some form of control to prevent abuses.

The conference ends Thursday.

Campers Bitten

Rabies Suspected In Skunk Incident

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Four persons are being treated for rabies following an attack Sunday by a skunk. Medical authorities fear the animal may have been rabid.

Brian Korney, Dave Dennis and Jerry Rittwage, all 16 and all of Moose Jaw, and Randy Forbes, about 25, of Regina, were placed under treatment after three of them were bitten by the skunk while they camped at nearby Buffalo Pound Lake. The three youth, being treated at a Moose Jaw hospital, and Mr. Forbes, in Regina, are being given daily injections of anti-rabies serum. Injections continue for 14 days.

Reports said the skunk apparently chewed its way through a canvas wall of a tent and bit Korney. Thrown off by the youth, it bit Dennis, and then Mr. Forbes.

The animal was shot by a friend of Mr. Forbes, who drove the youth to Moose Jaw. Rittwage was also being treated as a precaution.

Ski Stars To Fly July 19

Two kite-flying champions at the Seattle Seafair are among the water ski stars who will perform at the Beaver Lake water ski show July 19.

Harvey Loland and Rudy Tuschek will join other skiers in jumping, barefoot skiing, slalom racing and kite-flying.

Rudy Tuschek was Canada's national over-all champion of the senior men's division in 1966.

Starting at 7 p.m., the two-hour spectacular will offer some of Canada's top ski artists in action.

The show, presented by the B.C. Centennial committee and the Canadian Water Ski Association.

Committee, is under the direction of Bert Roosen and Lillian Gourley of Vancouver.

Mr. Roosen is a former star of water ski shows in Toronto and has appeared at Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Mrs. Gourley is past secretary-treasurer of the B.C. region of Canadian Water Ski Association.

Young Witness Sought in Expo Fire

MONTREAL (CP)—Fire department investigators said Tuesday they were searching for a youth wanted as a witness at an inquiry into the cause of a May 30 fire that ruined the interior of the Republic of China pavilion at Expo 67.

The youth had been seen in the pavilion shortly before the fire by other visitors and by employees, but his name was not known.

The three-alarm fire broke out at 1 a.m. while the fair was closed to the public and was extinguished within two hours.

The interior of the reinforced concrete structure had been damaged.

Subsequent investigations revealed that an unknown youth visited the pavilion at about 4 a.m. in the company of two girls and two pavilion employees whose testimony has since been heard at the inquiry.

The youth had been seen in

None was able to identify the youth, although they did provide a detailed description of him for a police sketch.

The pavilion was forced to close its doors for a month after the fire but reopened to the public June 30.

Bad Cheque Artists Busy

By BRIAN DOHERTY

The paper hangers are busy in Victoria. In the first six months of this year, they have passed the city with $14,714.50 in bad cheques.

A paper hanger is a bad cheque artist, a man (or woman) who writes cheques on non-existent or empty bank accounts.

So far this year, there have been 227 reports to the city of bad cheques of one type or other. In the first six months of last year there were 154 cases reported involving $1,775.70.

These are the reported cases:

Many are never reported to the police by embarrassed merchants.

Det.-Insp. William Andrews said Tuesday he was alarmed at the increase in cheque offences this year.

DOUBLED IN 1967

"We are always trying to assist merchants in every way to stop this practice," he said. "But, as the figures show, it has doubled this year."

Last year the total of bad cheques written in the city was just over $19,000. In a few months, at the going rate, this will be passed.

SUGGESTIONS

The city police have listed suggestions for merchants asked to cash cheques by strangers.

They suggest a careful examination of the cheque to ensure the name of the bank, branch and city are on it, that the written portion and figures agree and that no part of the face of the cheque has been altered.

ACCOUNT NUMBER

Do not cash a post-dated cheque, they say, and make sure the account number is filled in on a personal cheque.

They stress obtaining simple identification. It possible get an identification card containing a photograph, signature and description.

ASK QUESTIONS

If a driver's license is presented, compare signatures and, if in doubt, ask a few questions and compare the answers with information on the license.

Details of identification should be put on the back of the cheque and obtain home address and telephone number, police say.

MORE QUESTIONS

The merchant should ask the place of employment and telephone to verify the information and look up the number himself.

"If the person is driving an auto, try to obtain the license number," the warning says.

ENDORSE CHEQUE

"Have the person endorse the cheque in your presence, whether or not it is already signed."

"A forger may have procured the signature and written it carefully prior to presentation and may not be able to write it in the normal manner."

And, finally, the clincher.

"If still in doubt, ask the person if he will put his right thumb print on the back of the cheque. This can be done by using an ordinary office stamp pad."

Any person with his fingerprints on file in a police station will be wary of this if he is out to defraud the merchant.

A man found sleeping on a bench on Douglas Street near Yates at 4:55 a.m. Tuesday told police he would have no hesitation killing to get money.

George Chénard, 36, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Tuesday to vagrancy and was remanded to Thursday for sentence.

Prosecutor John MacIntyre said Chénard said police he would hold up a bank or commit a break-in if he could not get a job.

COULD GET GUN

"He said he would have no hesitation taking a person's life to get money," Mr. MacIntyre said. "He said he knew where to get a gun in Victoria."

He said in court he was not intoxicated when he spoke to police, and he was sane.

Magistrate William Ostler asked if he was serious that he would kill to get money.

"It's been done before," was the reply.

Itinerary for Monacans

Grimaldis Come in Peace

The first of the Grimaldi family to enter Monaco carved his way in with a sword.

Prince Rainier and Princess Grace, first Grimaldis to come to Victoria, will have a pleasant time of it when they arrive Sunday, July 23.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Premier Bennett, Mayor Stephen and the public will welcome the royal couple and their three children during a three-day stay.

VISIT DETAILS

Preliminary details of the state visit were released Tuesday by the provincial secretary's office. The royal couple, who arrive in Montreal today, will come to the Island via B.C. government ferry July 23.

With them will come their children, Prince Albert, Princess Caroline and Princess Stephanie. Princess Grace, the former Grace Kelly, is expecting her fourth child in January.

The couple will attend mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 5:15 p.m. that day.

The next day they will be received by Premier Bennett, pay a visit to City Hall, attend a government-sponsored luncheon at the Empress Hotel, and tour Butchart's Gardens.

The family will return to Vancouver July 25 by ferry.

Ruler of 20,000 people who inhabit Monaco's 370 acres on the French Riviera, Prince Rainier is the direct descendant of Italian adventurers who captured the fortress of Monaco 700 years ago.

Francois Grimaldi, disguised in a monk's robe, took the castle by surprise with the aid of a band of supporters.

The family's coat of arms today bears two monks brandishing a sword.

Two Inspectors Added Soon To Saanich Police Force

Saanich plans to appoint two inspectors to its police force, Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

The new positions are expected to be filled from within the ranks near the end of this year. Saanich council earlier this year gave the police commission authority to make the appointments.

"This is an important expansion of our department, in line with the tremendous growth which has taken place in recent years," said the reeve.

Officers eligible for the positions must be in the ranks of detective sergeant, sergeant or detective. The final selection will be based on personal interviews, evaluations and an examination.

Saanich will allow the candidates three months in which to study for the exams. Deadline for applications is July 31 and the exams will be written early in November.

The reeve also said that in recent weeks there has been a sudden increase in the number of letters from the public expressing appreciation of the police department's work.

"It is a department of this municipality which is a source of continuing pride," added Reeve Curtis.

In Multi-Million Complex

Convention Setup Near City Hall?

By A. H. MURPHY

City council may be convened in the next two weeks to consider locating the city's new convention centre in a multi-million-dollar commercial complex across Douglas Street from City Hall, the Colonist learned Tuesday.

It has been known for more than a year that developers have been assembling land in the city block bounded by Pandora, Blanshard, Cormorant and Douglas, with the object of building a multi-million-dollar shopping mall type of commercial development.

INCLUDES SKYSCRAPER

It would include a skyscraper, 20 or more stories high, facing on Blanshard, and another tower further west in the complex.

The original concept envisioned shops along Pandora and Cormorant, with an arcade and mall in the centre.

The tower on Blanshard would be principally residential, with commercial areas on the lower floors.

SPECIAL MEETING

Although confirmation could not be obtained at City Hall, it was learned a special meeting of the mayor's special convention centre committee may be held to consider the commercial proposition, one of several which have been included in convention centre discussions over the past year.

If the commercial proposition was considered to have merit, it was likely that city council would be called together in committee-of-the-whole to get a consensus.

FOUR SITES

Following deliberations of more than a year by a special committee, under Clyde Savage, a report was brought to which narrowed the possible sites for a centre down to four. Highly recommended was a site in the neighborhood of the Crystal Garden and the Empress Hotel.

With this report in hand, Mayor Hugh Stephen named a special committee headed by Ald. Percy Frampton, to make further studies and report to city council.

READY JULY 27

It was stated Tuesday this report would be ready for city council at its meeting July 27.

It was expected to make a recommendation for a site and to detail more specifically other considerations, such as the possible cost to the city of a centre.

Other sites mentioned as possible locations have been the area in the vicinity of Memorial Arena, the waterfront land now occupied by Ocean Cement Ltd., and the block west of Centennial Square.

Scots to Dance

Jerry Ingalls and his band will be joined by the dance team of the St. Andrew and Caledonian Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the second in a series of summer concerts in Centennial Square.

Treasure Search

Hunters Given Five-Clue Set

A total of $500 is still hiding in Greater Victoria, despite the release so far of two sets of clues on the treasure's whereabouts.

Not one of the five centennial medallions hidden by Rover Scouts has been found yet.

Each is in a different municipality—Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt and Central Saanich—and each is worth $100 to the treasure hunter who turns it in to Centennial Society headquarters in Centennial Square.

The third set of clues:

Furnish by them from the Atlantic; under cover; don't get off the track; look for drips; land of rock.

Each clue refers to a specific municipality and the clues are in no particular order.

Money will be awarded to finders Aug. 31.

Strike Notices Today For Hospitals?

Officials of Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals met for an hour Tuesday afternoon to discuss what they would do if operating engineers went ahead with strike plans.

Together, they decided all they would say was that they would look after the patients and no one should be apprehensive.

The delegations from each hospital were led by their board chairman—Fred Norris from St. Joseph's and Courtney Haddock from Royal Jubilee. They met in Mr. Haddock's office.

OTHER LOCATIONS

Today, both hospitals will probably receive strike notices. Vancouver General, St. Paul's, Royal Columbian and Burnaby General on the mainland will also be advised by registered mail that the Union of Operating Engineers may strike on 6 hours' notice.

MAIN ISSUE

The main issue is the union proposal for wage parity for all third-class engineers at major hospitals and the rejection of this by the hospitals' association.

Except for Vancouver General, current monthly rates for third-class engineers are $560 at Royal Jubilee and $540 elsewhere.

The cancellation board report, accepted by the hospitals but rejected by the union, recommended $630 rising to $680 next July at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's, but an additional $20 a month elsewhere.

The union wants wage parity now and its final proposal—rejected by the hospitals last week—was for $630 rising to $670 next July.

Remedial Class This Fall

By BILL STAVDAL

The Saanich school district's first class for emotionally-disturbed children will open this fall at McTavish elementary school.

The class, under care of a specially trained teacher, will aim at returning 15 pupils to the regular classrooms.

Nora Lindsay, chairman of the Saanich school board, said Tuesday the project is part of the board's policy of coping with special learning problems "to reduce human wastage."

EARLY AGE

"If we can reach them at an early age with a remedial program, it will prevent aggravation of their problems and school dropouts later on."

In a report to the board, district superintendent F. A. McLellan said:

"This class will be made up of pupils who have been carefully screened by the special counsellor so that they can receive special treatment for moderate emotional disturbance."

"It was found that the emotional disturbances of these youngsters was not sufficiently serious to justify their inclusion in Seven Oaks School (a private institution for disturbed youngsters)."

Vogel's fast mare Lacy, normally a good, sober beast, yesterday took it into her head to turn Good Templar and started off at race-time speed with the wagon attached, down Yates Street from Douglas to Wharf, and in turning the corner at the latter thoroughfare upset the vehicle and "schlupit all to licker."

Lacy, having accomplished her temperance object, allowed herself to be captured and driven home. The wagon was rescued from a small sea of beer in a comparatively unharmed state.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young man who has been keeping steady company with a young woman for over two years. We are not officially engaged but neither of us has dated anyone else for over a year, and we have talked of marriage.

Several weeks ago my fiancée was injured in an accident. I was driving, but the accident was not my fault. The driver of the other car had been drinking. All of this is a matter of record.

A few days ago the doctor told us that my fiancée's leg will never be right, and she will probably spend the rest of her life on crutches.

I am a person who loves swimming, hiking, dancing and tennis. The thought of being married to a woman who could not participate in sports is very depressing. I am torn by guilt because she was injured in my car. Yet I don't want to be stuck with a crippled woman. Please tell me what to do — ENTRE NOUS

Dear Anne: Don't marry the girl. You have neither the maturity nor the compassion required to make the marriage work. You would feel martyred, cheated and trapped and she would soon know it. One day this girl might make a wonderful wife, but not for you.

Dear Ann Landers: A dear friend of mine has me worried sick. She is a lovely person, lives in a beautiful place and has a nice income. But this woman has not thrown away a newspaper or a magazine or a box or a sack in 25 years.

The only room a person can walk through is the living room. If her place should ever catch fire, she wouldn't have a chance. Is there any way she can be forced by law to protect herself? — GOOD NEIGHBOR

Dear Neighbor: You don't say whether her "beautiful place" is a home or an apartment. If it's an apartment, it may be fire hazard for others, too, and should be investigated. For the woman's safety, suggest that she call the fire department and ask an inspector to come out and determine whether or not she is in danger.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl with a problem mother. We moved to this city a couple of weeks ago and my mother all of a sudden wants to be very glamorous. She has dyed her hair a fake red and it looks terrible. Now she wants me to dye my hair the same color so people will think her hair is natural.

My hair is a chestnut brown, nothing great, but it's good enough for me. Mom tells me I am a nice, ordinary looking girl but with red hair I would be a knockout.

I need someone who is older

Outdoor Beauty

That lovely fair complexion of yours was never meant to stand up to the harsh summer weather. Be kind to it, see that it is well protected when you're going, lying on the beach, or anywhere in the great outdoors. Wear a wide, shady hat and sunglasses — this will keep you from squinting your eyes. Before you venture out smooth on your oil of Olay before making-up, and don't forget your neck. Your skin will maintain a milky look despite the drying effect of the summer.

Tourists from Tacoma, Miss Kim Brown and Mr. Keith Smith, were among the many who found the Square a delight. (Kinsman)

There are lots of surprises in Bastion Square—among them this old-fashioned pedal vehicle. Pretty Naomi Stevens of Queen Anne Heights has a ride with Tibbie Mason-Hurley of Rockland Avenue. Miss Stevens

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

It was a happy reunion here on the weekend for childhood friends, Mrs. Joseph Smith of 559 Dunsmuir Street and Mrs. William Hall of Pembroke, Mass. The two friends who lived next door to one another during most of their childhood and early teens in Debsden, Sask., last saw each other 44 years ago. At that time Mrs. Hall, the former Laura St. Pierre, left Debsden at the age of 16 with her parents for the United States. She continued to correspond with her childhood friend, Yvonne Gaudreault, who later became Mrs. Joseph Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall motored from their home in Pembroke, leaving July 1, and travelled through the Rockies, stopping off at Banff and Lake Louise among other points of interest. They are now house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and are enjoying daily sightseeing tours of the area.

Pre-Wedding Reception

Prior to the wedding of Miss Nicole Owens and Mr. John Gaston, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gaston, 1561 Earle Street. There were about 30 guests. A bowl of lovely summer blooms and a decorated cake centred the refreshment table.

Mrs. Evelyn Bennett came from Vancouver to attend the wedding of her grand nephew, Mr. John Gaston, and Miss Nicole Owens.

Bastion Square Cool—Not a Bit Square

By KILLEN LEABOYD

Bastion Square isn't square—it's cool.

It's cool and fun and getting brighter and gayer by the minute.

Last year it was a grey shell—now it's lively with flowers and bright little permanent, and suddenly, it's peopled.

People everywhere.

They sit on the brick walls and lounge on the tiles and peering and eat their lunches.

read books, talk to everyone in sight. Business men in dark glasses dive into their briefcases. Tourists look. Happy hippies prowl, making a splash of bizarre color.

It's great to see some life in the staid old Square.

One of the biggest attractions is the new Village Fair, next door to the Maritime Museum. Architecturally it's a bit of everything, a hodge-podge of little stores, funny entrances and curious doorways.

Although its actually well designed, it appears to have no plan, and that makes it thoroughly delightful.

Far at the back is a beautiful shop which sells local pottery. There's an art store, a toy shop, a candy store and four fashion shops.

Somewhere in the centre of the Village Fair, is a shop which holds a lot of excitement for the young... it is a slightly-pseudo psychedelic shop called the Unicorn.

It sells a glorious confusion of Theda Bara posters, paper lanterns, crazy toys, nod fashion, mobiles, incense, and soaked bags of all sizes.

In another nook, with a wrought iron grill sits a pretty girl selling paintings and more posters.

Near the front of the Fair in the lower entrance, is "The Witches Cauldron." A shop which is actually a boutique for chefs.

There did not appear to be a bookstore (not yet at any rate) and there is unfortunately no big showcase for local artists.

San Francisco and Los Angeles have streets of stores which display local art—and in these cities it has become the way to spend a very good evening, just to visit the small galleries on summer nights.

Most of them stay open until midnight. The more galleries the better, and the public has become art conscious and art savvy. With the number of very good artists here—Maxwell Bates, Cicciomarra, Herb Sietner, Michael Morris, Nita Forrest—to name a few, we could have half a dozen galleries.

And it would be fun if they stayed open at night, at least for the summer.

But Bastion Square really looks bright and alive, and the Village Fair is a dazzling little centre. A happy place in which to while away some hours.

Builder Opposed To B.C.

Representing 600 contractors the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. will oppose a provincial government plan to use a "design-and-construct" system in building 180 housing units in the city's Rose-Blairstown urban renewal scheme.

The system is described by the association as wasteful, and it said it should not be used where public funds are being employed.

In a strongly worded communication to the provincial government the association laid its objections to the method which was recently outlined by deputy minister of municipal affairs J. Everett Brown, who said it could effect a 20-per-cent saving on house-building costs in the $3,000 project.

STRONGLY OPPOSED

Mr. Brown was supported in that claim by local contractor Grant Marcus, but strongly opposed by Victoria architect John A. DiCastri, who said the system was wasteful.

J. W. Bishop, executive director of the Amalgamated Construction Association, said in a letter presented to the provincial government several months ago, that under the design-and-construct method, 10 firms or consortia were bidding on a job, all 10 must design the project up to the tender stage.

TREMBLED OVER COST

This represented a disadvantage to the construction industry and had the added disadvantage that the architect involved was not responsible for the owners of the building.

Northwest Chess Victory Special

Seattle, Portland and Victoria took the top four spots in the Pacific Northwest chess championships in Seattle over the weekend.

Seattle's Jim McCormick and Norman Abrahamson shared first prize with 5½ points out six possible, followed by Portland's Rick Garong, 5, and Victoria's Ray Kerr, 4½.

project, but in the contractor builder who was chosen.

Under the conventional competitive method, contractors bid on the basis of designs and specifications prepared by an architect who was the agent of the owner or sponsor of the project.

LONG PROTEST

Michael Griffin, regional director of the association, said the organization had long protested the design-and-construct method.

Last February, he recalled, strong protests were made against a call for a package proposal for the design and construction of laboratories at an office on provincially owned land near the University of Victoria.

Similar protests would add the same method in Blanshard-Rose project.

The association listed as principal reasons why it opposed the design-and-construct system:

- A much longer project was required to call tenders and get the work started.
- It restricted competition among bidders, so each contractor was confined to the restrictions of the design team employed.
- With the contractor placing the cover on the design of the design team, costs were almost invariably higher.
- With the designer agent of the contractor, owner would have to do inspection and supervision himself.

ian Wins l Prize

Mr. McCreweick and Abrahamson split $25; Ganong received $30 and Kerr $25. The Victorian, who recently won the B.C. centennial chess championship here, received $25 as the top-placed Canadian and a special prize for his win against Seattle's chess expert D. Richardson.

The two-day, six-city tournament took in 88 players the best from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia.

McCreweick, Abrahamson and Kerr were the only undefeated players in the tourney.

Young Lion Spoils Unusual Topless Act

GARDENA, Calif. — Bar owner Jack Taub, 36, has abandoned plans to train a lion to perform with his 300-pound topless dancer.

"It would have been a fantastic act," said Taub. "Saddle — our exotic dancer — and a 250-pound lion. Except they had to shoot the lion."

"Charley," an eight-month-old declawed lion which Taub kept in a cage at the rear of his "Promised Land Tavern, had to be shot to death by police after it escaped from the cage, terrified a couple parked in a car and finally attacked Taub.

MONTREAL — Expo's 20,000,000th visitor was Orlene Bushnell, 19, of Chicopee Falls, Mass. Orlene was given a VIP tour of the fair, feted at the U.S. pavilion and presented with a watch by representatives of the Swiss pavilion. She and her family will be the guests of a cigarette manufacturer for 24 hours.

WASHINGTON — Former U.S. president Dwight Eisenhower, 76, underwent the first of a series of routine tests on his heart, chest and gastrointestinal system at Walter Reed Hospital.

LOS ANGELES — Mickey Hargis, claiming he was the legal husband of actress Jayne Mansfield when she died in a car accident, has petitioned the superior court here to name him administrator of her estimated $200,000 estate. Hargis, who was married to Miss Mansfield from 1958 to 1963, claimed the star's third husband, director Matt Cimber, never was married to her legally.

LONDON — Lynda Bird Johnson, 25, toured the far-out shops of London's Carnaby Street, the "Mod" fashion capital of the world. But so far as is known she bought nothing. "I did not know she was coming," said U.S. ambassador David Bruce, who went to the airport with his wife to meet Lynda.

NEW YORK — Ignoring the 90-degree weather, Senator Everett Dirksen rumbled nobly through Visit from St. Nicholas, Joy to the World, and other traditional Christmas favorites. The Senate minority leader was in Capitol Records' studios cutting another long playing album. His baritone voice was backed musically by a 23-piece orchestra and a 10-member choir.

BUJUMBURA, Burundi — The president of Burundi, Col. Michel Micombero, 26, alone in his car, suffered multiple injuries when his vehicle crashed into a tree. Doctors said his condition was not serious.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — A Berkeley, Calif., secretary has started a seven-day fast on the state capitol steps in protest against Gov. Ronald Reagan's mental health budget. Kathleen Beckmann, 25, said she would consume only water during the one-week period. Reagan cut $11,500,000 from the state mental health program.

OTTAWA — Prince Takamatsu, of Japan held a pleasant, half-hour talk with Prime Minister Pearson at which controversial international questions apparently were avoided.

NELSON — A massive search for five-year-old Myra Shady of Nelson ended when the boy walked out of dense bush by himself, 40 miles north of Creston near the area where he was lost. He was in good condition but tired.

TORONTO — Dr. Charles E. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, has formally ended a career of 46 years in medical research. The 68-year-old biochemist has retired as director of the Banting and Best department of medical research at the University of Toronto and as professor in the physiology department which he headed for 37 years.

Overdue Sloop In Vancouver

SEATTLE (AP) — The 36-foot sloop Serene, which had been reported overdue here after leaving Victoria Thursday, was found Monday afternoon in Vancouver, the Coast Guard reported Tuesday. Three Seattle men were aboard.

Man Guilty on Five Charges

Courtroom Parade

A 21-year-old man pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Tuesday to two counts of breaking, entering and theft, one of theft under $40, one of obtaining lodgings by fraud and one of taking an automobile without the owner's consent.

William Leslie Noon, no fixed address, was remanded to July 18 for a pre-sentence report.

Det. Thomas Smith said Noon registered July 2 in the Yates Hotel, 712 Yates, and paid for one night. He stayed until July 6 and left without paying his bill.

KEYS TAKEN

On July 6 he broke into a house at 1040 Redfern and took the keys to a 1957-model car which he took and later abandoned in Goldstream Park.

Four days later he broke into Benny's Grill, 1020 Blanshard, and stole cigarettes, chocolate, gum and half a pie. When Noon left the hotel, he took with him two blankets and a pillow, Det. Smith said.

Daphne Davenport, 56 Johnson, was remanded to this afternoon for sentence when she pleaded guilty to causing wilful damage under the value of $50.

Magistrate William Ostler made the remand so Miss Davenport could be examined by a doctor.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said she broke a pane of glass at the Island Taxi office at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday when she asked for a case of beer and was told to get it from the beer parlor.

Two men were remanded to July 18 to elect their method of trial when they were charged with theft over $50.

John Williams, 731 Belmont, and Emil Dobrovolsky, 3321 Whittier, were charged with stealing copper and torpedos.

A motorcyclist who was flipped to the ground Monday night when his machine hit a curb at Fraser and Wychbury in Esquimalt was fined $250 for impaired driving.

Bail was set at $500 for each man.

When he met the other driver, Claude O'Callaghan, face to face, he struck him with his fist, cutting O'Callaghan's mouth.

McStravick, Work Point Barracks, pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm and was placed on a suspended sentence.

Richard Stark, 321 Michigan, pleaded guilty. His licence was suspended.

Thomas McStravick was so incensed when a motorist cut in front of him June 26, causing him to brake sharply and send his young son to the floor, that he chased the other car.

Robert Brooks, 287 Orlebar, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended when found guilty of impaired driving. He was stopped July 1 after driving erratically on Belmont Avenue.

Fined in traffic court for careless driving: Philip Lang, 706 Piedmont, $35; Dennis Cheek Sun Quan, 2630 Graham, $40.

He was also put on a $250 bond for six months.

Magistrate Ostler said he could understand McStravick's annoyance, but there was no excuse for him to take the law into his own hands.

Garden Notes

Look Way Ahead

By M. V. CHESNUT

My neighbor Ernie came over to borrow my fertilizer spreader just as I was sitting down to write this column. "What's it going to be about this time?" he asked, scrounging a cigarette from the box on my desk. "Lilacs, I think," I answered, quietly moving the box out of his reach. "Lilacs! In July?" he roared. "What's the matter? You got holes in your head or something? The lilacs have been finished for over a month!" I tried to explain, but he went away unconvinced, taking with him not only the fertilizer spreader but a bottle of rose spray and my best hose-end sprayer.

It is difficult for the novice gardener to get into his head that the really important time in the life of any permanent plant is AFTER it has flowered. In the early spring when the gardening fever is running its highest temperature, the novice will pamper his lilac bushes, feeding them, watering them, cultivating the soil around them as the flower buds swell, all of which hasn't the slightest effect on this year's bloom. For the quality and quantity of this year's bloom was decided away back last summer.

The important period in the growth cycle of your lilacs, and of most flowering shrubs, is from June to October, and right now, deep within the cells of your bushes, next year's flowering performance is being decided. Some of the factors that govern the size and number of blossom trusses are beyond our control; for instance, if we get plenty of sunshine and not much rain in late summer and fall, we can usually expect plenty of blooms, while dull, wet weather makes for a poor flowering performance the following year. There are, however, a few things we can do to help matters along.

Regular feeding and watering through the midsummer period will pay handsome dividends next spring. Probably the easiest way to feed a lilac bush is to scatter some granules of a well-spread garden fertilizer on the soil surface over the root area and scratch it in shallowly, following up with a good deep watering. Be sure to use a GARDEN fertilizer, though; a lawn fertilizer tends to stimulate the growth of leaves and branches at the expense of the flowers. The root area to be fertilized is a big circle with a diameter equal roughly to the height of the bush.

Or you can use one of the "instant" fertilizers dissolved in water and applied with a watering can to the root area, one tablespoonful per gallon and about half a gallon per square yard of root area.

Still another way is foliar feeding, spraying the leaves weekly with a weak fertilizer solution. The liquid fish, liquid seaweed and liquid whale earthlings are especially good for this leaf-feeding technique. Stop all feeding by the middle of August, though, and quit watering at the end of August so all new growth will lose its suppleness and harden up before winter.

Another important job on lilacs is the removal of faded blossom trusses before they can form seeds; the making of seeds is a terribly exhausting process, using up vigor which should be going into next year's flowers.

Some pruning can be done now, particularly the removal of any branches which are growing inward, toward or across the centre of the bush, or any which are crossing or crowding one another. This admits sunlight and air to the centre of the bush, ripening and hardening the green wood, and this in turn promotes the formation of bigger and better trusses of bloom next spring.

They Won, That's Why Says ARTHUR HOPPE

Israel Lets Friends Down

WASHINGTON — The tactics of the Israeli generals were superb. The courage of the Israeli troops was magnificent. But it is abundantly clear that they made one strategic blunder of historic proportions in the Middle East war: They won it.

The ramifications of this disastrous mistake were perhaps best summed up here by Dr. Elmer T. Pettibone, long-time executive director of the American Friends of Tiny Israel.

"When the outbreak of the war became imminent," said Dr. Pettibone through somewhat pursed lips, "our heart overflowed with sympathy for tiny Israel. Outnumbered as they were by at least 20-1, there was no question in our mind that our brave Israeli friends would be driven into the sea.

"We geared for action. Press releases and policy statements were prepared. Listen to this: 'History will long remember this day in infamy when a people who have suffered so long and so much were driven once again from their homeland to wander the surface of an unwearying world.'"

"And the plans we made to help them!" said Dr. Pettibone, growing ever more animated. "Relocation centres in friendly Switzerland. A search for new homes for our homeless friends. Why Argentina alone hinted that 350 would be welcome there. We had done all we could. Our consciences were clear.

"Now, of course, the lightning advances of the Israeli army in the first days of the war heartened us all. The quick collapse of the Arabs amazed us. But it was over so soon," Dr. Pettibone frowned. "Why, our Israeli friends hardly suffered at all."

He paused to polish his glasses, and his territorial gains made by Israel have posed the most difficult problem of all for we American Friends of Tiny Israel," he said gravely. "For the fact of the matter is that Israel isn't tiny any more.

"If they aren't tiny and they aren't suffering, it is understandably difficult to evoke sympathy for them. Thus in recent weeks we have been coming around to the position that they must promptly give up all the territory they acquired. Our motto is: 'Let's make tiny Israel tiny once again.'"

"True, our Israeli friends argue that this would simply put them back in their same old hard-to-defend positions, that the Arabs would attack them again and again and eventually carry out their threats to drive them into the sea."

"But we say they must have faith in us. Should this happen they must realize that they would be the beneficiaries of the greatest outpouring of sympathy the world has ever seen."

"After all," said Dr. Pettibone, permitting himself a smile of pure nobility, "that's what friends are for."

Sammy Wants In

LONDON (NANA) — Sammy Davis is interested in owning part of a gambling club in London, a la George Raft's Onyx Club which is still capitalizing on his name. Sammy is in London making Pepper and Salt with Peter Lawford. Sammy is Charlie Salt, Peter is Christopher Pepper and by sheer coincidence of course, they own a gambling establishment.

Ray Baker telephoned New York lawyer Arnold Weissberger to say he would be delighted to take over for Danny Kaye at the Ambassador theatre festival. Arnold called director John Clements, but alas and alack, the play had just been abandoned. Danny left the show as you know to go to Israel.

Did you know that Davey Jones of the Monkees, who had a Beetle-like reception in Britain, was the best Arthur Dodger in David Merrick's Oliver? I'm planning to visit the set of the film version of Oliver to find out why David Wallis was chosen instead of Georgia Brown for the Nancy Sykes role.

It's rumored that Ethel Merman will be in London before the spring to repeat her Broadway Gypsy role... and Angela and to congratulate producer John Woolf on having the good sense to give the role of Fagin to Ben Moody who created the part... Incidentally, I know an enormous secret about the movie version of Oliver that I am under oath not to divulge. Ask me in September and I'll tell you. It's really fantastic. Having whetted your curiosity to the point of madness, I'll go on to the next item.

Lambert will be bringing her Mame to London after the show's California run. Nevada Pabst is expected to be her replacement on Broadway... Celeste Helm will cover in Baltimore and Chicago.

Margaret Rutherford's many admirers will be glad to know that her doctors consider her well enough to return to her role in The Rivals. She has been out of the Sheridan comedy for several weeks.

Harold Prince is due in London to set up the British stage version of his Broadway hit, Cabaret. He will be robbing the London theatregoers if he does not use Jael Grey here, if only for a limited time. I simply cannot see anyone else in the part.

Party Innocent Caper Ballet Partners Freed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ballet Margot Fonteyn and her flamboyant partner, Rudolf Nureyev, were jailed Tuesday in a raid on a swinging party that investigators later decided was an innocent caper in hippie-land.

An assistant district attorney announced the decision not to prosecute the world's premier dancers after a day-long investigation.

"We feel there is insufficient evidence to charge any particular individual with a misdemeanor or a felony," said the assistant, Frederick Whisman.

NO ARRAIGNMENT
 The decision cancelled a municipal court arraignment previously scheduled for Wednesday for the stars and their 15 companions on charges of being in a place where marijuana was used or kept and of disturbing the peace.

DON'T EVEN SMOKE
 "As if we could smoke marijuana," she declared. "We don't even smoke cigarettes."

A dozen marijuana cigarettes were confiscated at the party, but there was no indication anyone had been smoking.

The premier ballerina's version of what happened was disclosed in London by William Beresford, an official of the Royal Opera House.

TOUR OF AREA
 Beresford said their friends asked Dame Margot and Nureyev at a late supper whether they had ever been to the hippie district.

"They said: 'We will take you. It is the sort of thing all tourists do!'" said Beresford.

"So they were taken to this house and had only been there for about 10 to 15 minutes before the police raid on it."

MOST FLED
 When officers entered the second-story flat, most of the occupants fled.

Dame Margot was found hiding on a rooftop in her expensive mink coat. Nureyev also was discovered on another rooftop.

The couple and their companions were freed from city prison several hours later after their manager posted bail of $330 each.

A spokesman for the dancers later announced they would perform as planned tonight in Reno and Juliet. The performance will be the final one in San Francisco and the ballet company then starts an engagement Friday in Los Angeles' Hollywood Bowl.

Whisman said there was no evidence to "indicate who had possession of the contraband."

"Although there was definitely a disturbance of the peace occurring when the officers arrived, the evidence does not indicate which individuals were contributing to the disturbance."

REASONABLE CAUSE
 And, Whisman told newsmen, the decision against pressing formal charges "has nothing to do with the identity of any of the persons arrested."

However, he said, there was "reasonable cause for the arrest of all persons involved."

Party members had contended the arrests were unwarranted because no one was smoking marijuana. They said the ballet stars and several other entertainers decided on the spur of the moment to visit the hippie district out of curiosity.

HIPPIE FUGALITY
 Dame Margot and Nureyev were in a downtown hotel when Whisman announced the decision on the arrests that caused a sensation in Britain. One writer speculated the arrests resulted from a "hippie anxious to attract publicity to the marijuana cause."

Jonathan Aitken wrote for the London Evening Standard that linking ballet dancers "with the hippie rebellion and its illegal practices is certain to fan still further the flames of controversy over marijuana in the United States."

'Hard Line' Policy Russian Show Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet government postponed indefinitely Tuesday the trans-continental American tour of the Russian Festival of Music and Dance which was to have opened in New York next Monday.

The show, with a cast of 300, was the largest ever mounted by Russia under its cultural exchange agreement with the United States. Show business sources here saw the postponement as a critical setback in the program due to the "hard line" policy Russia has adopted toward the United States.

The United States was to have sent "Holiday on Ice" to Russia on a tour of major cities in exchange for the Russian festival. Whether the American skating show will go to Russia under the circumstances was now in doubt.

American impresario Sol Hurok arranged for the show more than two years ago and a year and a half has gone into the planning, a spokesman for his office said. The performers represented many regions of Russia as well as its top national cultural institutions such as the Bolshoi opera and ballet.

The show was scheduled to open at the Metropolitan Opera House Monday for a two-week stand, then move on to other large American cities, terminating the tour in mid-September. The Hurok spokesman said "hundreds of thousands of dollars worth" of tickets had been sold in advance.

The Russian festival was originally scheduled to open here July 5 but the date was pushed up two weeks because of technical difficulties, according to a Soviet embassy explanation.

Brahma Bull Injures Rider

CALGARY (CP)—An Alberta cowboy is in fair condition in hospital today with a fractured skull and other injuries suffered when he was dragged and kicked by a Brahma bull at the Calgary Stampede Monday.

Mark Garstad, 34, of Veteran, Alta., fell under his mount with a hand caught in a stirrup. He was repeatedly kicked in the head and chest as he tried to free himself, then lost consciousness.

Garstad, brother of Old Garstad, twice Canadian bull riding champion, also suffered a broken nose and collarbone and possible internal injuries. His hand finally slipped from the grip strap.

He was the second rider injured in four days. Ken Potts, 31, of Pincher Creek, Alta., was reported in good condition in hospital with chest injuries.

Meanwhile, the annual Stampede parade turned out the expected drawing card that put the biggest crowd so far this year on the Stampede grounds, compared with 21,295 on the fourth day last year and 212,445 on the day of the 1966 parade.

OTHER EVENTS
 In other rodeo events, Keith Hyland of Turner Valley, Alta., had a 63-point ride in the open saddle bronc contest and added it to his previous 60 for the overall lead.

In chuckwagon racing, Ralph Vigen of Grande Prairie, Alta., picked up a one-second penalty and lost first place after four days to the Janko brothers' rig from Red Deer.

PARADE JUDGING
 In parade judging, the 103-member Cranbrook Girls Bugle Band for the third year netted the trophies for best band, best Canadian band and best from a city of up to 40,000.

The Whalley Legion Junior Band from North Surrey was named best Canadian brass band.

The advice came Tuesday from Stan Skors, business agent of local 655 of the Beverage Dispensers' Union. It arises from a decision by an arbitration board in the case of a Chilliwack bartender who was dismissed for striking a customer. The board upheld the dismissal.

"If this is the way management wants it," Skors said, "they will have to do their own policing. They can hire doormen or bouncers to do it."

A spokesman for the B.C. Hotels Association said hotel operators don't expect bartenders and waiters to become involved in fights in beer parlors and cocktail lounges, although they often aid in blocking potential fights with the use of diplomacy.

Independence Given Big Yes in Anguilla

ANGUILLA (UPI) — Residents of this tiny Caribbean island voted for independence by a big margin in a referendum Tuesday. Voting was orderly, despite rumors of a coup attempt, in this 28-square-mile area which broke away May 30 from a federation including the Leeward Islands of St. Kitts and Nevis.

Recreation Site To Adjoin Sports Centre

Saanich is ready to develop a community recreation site adjoining the $146,000 sports centre planned next to Claremont school by the Saanich school board.

Municipal parks superintendent Bert Richman said Tuesday, one day after the board unveiled the 11-acre plan, that Saanich has two acres west of the school. Underbrush has already been cleared and Saanich will use the property for playground and picnic space and supervised summer recreation programs.

Two accidents within five minutes at Patricia Bay Highway and West Saanich Road Tuesday resulted in three people going to hospital.

James Harwell, Tucson, Ariz., and Roderick Christ, 187, Hazelton, were unharmed when their cars collided. Later, a car driven by Mrs. Thora Turley, 10251 West Saanich Road stopped for the wreck and was hit by one driven by Mrs. Margaret Akelose, 515 Broadway.

Mrs. Akelose and her daughters Tamara, 7, and Maureen, 1, were treated at hospital for lacerations and released. A niece, Wendy Akelose, was admitted with a leg abrasion.

Fish Union, Owners Set to Sign

VANCOUVER (CP) — A settlement agreement between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the Fishing Vessel Owners Association of B.C. is expected to be signed today.

Seventy union members from 18 Vancouver and Victoria boats will vote on the proposal, which gives the owners a flat 40 per cent of the catch after costs instead of 37 1/2 per cent. Owners would pay compensation from the gross stock.

Meanwhile, B.C. salmon net fishermen have signed a two-year contract with the B.C. Fisheries Association, giving them higher prices for sockeye, coho, summer chum and pink salmon.

Same Terms For Ford As for GM

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Tuesday gave Ford the same contract demands given to GM the day before.

Ford called them "unreasonable" but there was no sign to bolster the rumor the UAW would single out Ford as a strike target.

Meanwhile, GM agreed to open Canadian negotiations a month ahead of U.S. talks. The UAW urged the move so both parties would end on the same date.

Reds Invite Capitalists

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia opened its doors Tuesday to foreign capital investments, becoming the first Communist country to do so.

Parliament adopted several regulations and amendments to laws which make possible co-operation between Yugoslav and foreign firms, provided foreign capital does not obtain the right of ownership.

Powell River

Arsenic Barrels Worry Officials

There is some doubt whether 13 of 21 barrels of arsenic pesticide which fell from a MacMillan Blodell float last month at Temkerne Arm near Powell River will ever be recovered.

A shell fishing ban will be maintained in the area until a federal fisheries department biologist, who left for the area Tuesday, reports whether there is a danger.

The biologist will re-sample sea water and shell fish for possible arsenic poisoning because it is believed the barrels may be leaking.

Eight barrels were recovered by divers. Ken Jackson, department spokesman, said the company has agreed to sink the recovered barrels in concrete and drop them into the sea some 40 miles from shore.

MacMillan Blodell has a logging operation at Temkerne Arm.

He said there is some doubt whether the other barrels will ever be found.

Pirates Chicken Out When Allies Vanish

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Six stow-aways brandishing submachine-guns and pistols seized command of a freighter off Miami Beach Tuesday, but fled the vessel in a lifeboat two hours later after smashing the radio equipment.

The captain of the 353-foot Freight Transporter, Ramon Carpio, said the men told him they had intended "to use the vessel to hijack another ship," but changed their minds when other people they had expected to meet did not keep a rendezvous at sea.

GUATEMALA-BOUND — The Freight Transporter sailed from Miami's Dodge Island port for Guatemala. Immediately after it cleared the dock, the six men came out of hiding and surprised the captain and other ship's officers in the wheel house.

Three hours later, the Freight Transporter shot flares to attract coast guard attention. A short time later, several witnesses saw six armed men come ashore in a lifeboat, hail a taxi and ride away.

Police Chief Rocky Pomerance said all cab drivers in the city had been checked but none reported such a pickup.

The Freight Transporter carries loaded truck trailers in a regular run between Miami and Guatemala. It was allowed to proceed after intensive questioning of the captain and crew by FBI agents and police.

The lifeboat the men used to come ashore was found on the beach. Beside it lay a rifle and several clips of ammunition.

Ferry Officers May Open Files

B.C. ferry officers are tired of being "totally ignored" by the provincial government and threatened Tuesday to open their files to the press unless they soon get government action.

New Zealand Coins Already Worth $200

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — Some two-cent pieces of New Zealand's new decimal currency, which went into effect only last weekend, are already worth $200 each due to a minting mistake.

The coins, correct on one side, have Bahamas Islands stamped on the other—and no date.

Black Brant Missiles

Bad Weather Halts Churchill Rockets

OTTAWA (UPI) — Bad weather cancelled indefinitely the blastoff of two research rockets from the Fort Churchill, Man., range Tuesday.

The "Black Brant 3" missiles, due to be fired into sub-orbital flight at sunrise and sunset, are the third and fourth in a series to study the effect of heat emissions on weather patterns.

Carrying 175-pound instrument payloads designed and owned by the University of Saskatchewan, the rockets will be launched to an altitude of 65 miles and take photometer readings of infra-red light.

The readings will be telemetered back to earth.

The project is being conducted jointly by the Institute of Space and Atmospheric Studies at the University of Saskatchewan and Bristol Aerospace Industries Ltd., of Winnipeg.

Egg Board In Making

Agriculture Minister Richter says he is preparing the framework for a province-wide egg marketing board as a result of a 75 per cent favorable vote by the 536 commercial producers in B.C.

He said a three-man board might be in operation before the end of the summer.

Five Years for 13 Crimes

American Imprisoned

A Washington man who pulled a knife on a city policeman when he was arrested and who uttered 10 forged cheques was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Magistrate William Oester in central court Tuesday.

Donald Harry Schultz, 30, of Orlin, Wash., appeared in court for sentence on charges of possession of an offensive weapon, 10 counts of uttering forged cheques, one of attempted uttering and one of car theft.

TERMS CONCURRENT

He received five years sentence on each charge, to be concurrent.

Schultz had pleaded guilty last Friday when court was told that he had pulled the knife on Sgt. Gordon Bennett in a Johnson Street cafe Thursday.

INTENDED ROBBERY

Schultz had said then that he had intended to rob the King's Hotel.

He also admitted writing the cheques on funds he had stolen from Scotia Fuel Company, receiving $307.13 for them.

CAR THEFT

Tuesday he pleaded guilty to stealing a 1967-model car from Budget Rent-A-Car, 843 Douglas.

Det. Thomas Smith said Schultz rented the car for one day June 13 and when he was located Thursday had placed different license plates on the car.

REPORT ASKED

Magistrate William Oester had asked for a psychiatric report after observing Schultz in the dock Friday.

After considering the report, he said Schultz was not mentally ill but seemed to be addicted to alcohol.

Schultz made no comment on the sentence but asked whether judicial criminal proceedings would be taken against him and whether he would be returned to the United States where he was on a 20-year parole.

Magistrate Oester said it was a matter for the Crown to investigate and was not before the court.

Life on Welfare

Minister Shifts Blame

By NANCY BROWN

Welfare Minister Campbell shifted the blame Monday for low standards of living for people on welfare from the provincial government to the community.

The government, he said during an interview, had laid down basic rates, with additional amounts which could be applied on the basis of need.

"I can't buy the theory that if you raise basic rates these people will commit themselves to rehabilitation," he said.

ISOLATE THEMSELVES

Criticism of the welfare department had in the past been preoccupied with basic rates.

He felt that provision of the means to allow people on welfare to rehabilitate themselves was of greater importance, and should be a community function.

SHOULD HELP

Churches, schools and other organizations should plan to help people on welfare with the provision of baby-sitting, services and other community help.

"How many times has the church or school tried to develop community programs and build up voluntary resources?" he asked.

PRIME AIM

He said he felt rehabilitation was the prime aim of his department, and if anyone were totally committed to the retraining and effort involved, then he would see that such things as baby-sitting allowances, clothing allowances, and even bus fares were allowed.

The lack of adequate day care or homemaker services for working mothers is a practical problem which will have to be solved by the community at large, he said.

WONT CONSIDER

The provincial government will not consider a guaranteed minimum income, Mr. Campbell added.

This is partly because the federal government has indicated it will be moving along those lines, and partly because any province that does set alone will find itself the only place in Canada where a certain type of person will come.

WATCHING RESULTS

Asked if the department would have professional nutritionists or dietitians assess the amount of money needed to buy proper food for families, he said he did not want his department to specialize in specific areas.

SPECIAL ALLOWANCES

As rents had increased recently, and welfare recipients were having to use their food allowance toward rent, the department was giving special allowances on a basis of need.

Those who could prove need could receive up to an additional 50 per cent on their rent allowance.

(This allowance for a family of five is currently $80 a month. The increase would bring the amount to $300.)

MAKING SURVEYS

He said surveys are currently being made in the old-age pension and welfare fields, aimed at elimination of overlapping of services and at decentralization.

He said he would like to see welfare administered on a neighborhood rather than a municipal basis.

OTHER ALLOWANCES

Apart from the rent allowance, there were other amounts that could be given, if need was proven, and he would like to see a more vigorous application of these.

He said that if these things were poorly administered, there was appeal machinery which the poor could use, and he would see that the appeals were given full hearings.

Homes Tour Saturday

Three historic homes will be visited Saturday on a tour sponsored by the University of Victoria and conducted by writer James K. Nesbitt.

The tour will begin at 2 p.m. starting from the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, 1040 Moss Street. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Bora Browne at the University of Victoria.

Points to be visited are Craigflower Manor, Point Ellice House and Craigdarroch Castle. Tea will be served afterward at the art gallery.

Lawyer Fed To Teeth

TORONTO (CP)—Deputy national NDP leader David Lewis stirred things up Tuesday when he suddenly appeared as counsel for dismissed Metro Toronto chief coroner Dr. Milton Shulman at a royal commission probe into Shulman's charges of government interference.

The commissioner, Ontario Supreme Court Justice W. D. Parker, said Shulman had no right to be represented by counsel after his first lawyer, Walter Wilkinson, withdrew Monday.

Lewis shot back, "I'm fed to the teeth with this kind of statement," after which the commissioner accepted Lewis.

He also agreed to an adjournment so Lewis and the commission staff can discuss a resumption date.

Road Toll A Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. motor vehicle accidents took record tolls of dead, injured and property damage last year, the B.C. Safety Council said Tuesday.

The death toll rose to 520 from 500 in 1965, the injury total to 18,450 from 17,514 and the property damage to $28,186,227 from $23,825,695. The number of vehicles rose to 817,348 from 764,353.

Victim of Rivard Affair

Once Liberal Star, Favreau Dies at 50

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Favreau, former federal cabinet minister who resigned in 1965 due to criticism resulting from the Rivard affair the year before, died Tuesday in a hospital he entered June 15 for treatment of uraemia. He was 50.

Once considered heir apparent to the Liberal party leadership, he was first elected in 1953. In the next year, he became citizenship and immigration minister and then justice minister, government House leader and chief of Quebec federal Liberals.

Favreau

time in the U.S. on a narcotics charge.

The report of the resulting royal commission inquiry criticized Mr. Favreau for deciding on his own against prosecutions based on the Lamontagne allegations.

Mr. Favreau resigned June 24, 1965, stayed in the cabinet as minister without portfolio and then president of the Privy Council and registrar-general. This year, he resigned due to ill health and was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

Prime Minister Pearson said of the death of the Montreal-born Favreau: "I have lost a dear friend and Canada has lost a great patriot. He had no trace of meanness or smallness in his nature."

John Diefenbaker, extending sympathy, said: "It is very sad."

Vancouver Sniper Inquest

Patient Dangerous Doctor Told Police

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor treating Arthur John Towell testified Tuesday he contacted police and told them the former airman "was potentially dangerous and should be investigated."

Dr. Henry Chong said one of his reasons for contacting the police was that "I didn't want the guns to be there when I was there."

Towell

He was testifying at an inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. David Webster, shot by a sniper last Thursday in the backyard of their Point Grey district house.

Towell, 35, who suffered a severe brain injury while stationed in West Germany with the RCAF several years ago, is charged with capital murder in the Webster deaths and two counts of attempted murder in the wounding of two women.

Dr. Chong said Towell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Towell, came to his office last August and expressed concern about what their son might do.

"The boy was afraid someone was after him," said Dr. Chong. "The parents were afraid of what he might do. I told them to go to the police and the situation would be investigated."

"I didn't know if they would go to the police, so I contacted the police myself and told them."

From UPI, AP, LAT

SAIGON (U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara finished his five-day Vietnam visit Tuesday and flew back to Washington to tell President Johnson how much more men, money and material must be pumped into the war.

Before leaving, he said there would be no letup in the air war, declared U.S. commanders will get all the troops necessary and hinted it may be difficult to justify commitments above the 470,000 Americans now authorized for battlefield duty. (See also Page 3).

McNamara's recommendations and evaluation are expected to play an important role in administration policy during the next few months.

Gen. William Westmoreland was believed to have asked for between 100,000 and 200,000 additional troops.

Sources said McNamara instead urged Westmoreland's

Cuban Banished

MIAMI (AP)—U.S. immigration authorities Tuesday ordered Cuban exile leader Felipe Rivero, 45, banished from the U.S. for anti-Castro terrorist activities.

Rivero, arrested May 5 after he threatened to blow up the Cuban pavilion at Expo, will be sent to a country of his choice, possibly Spain.

However, his lawyers said they will appeal the immigration court verdict to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

He has lived in the U.S. since 1951 as a refugee under parole, except for time in Cuban prisons after the Bay of Pigs fiasco.

Two B.C. Bank Branches Here

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The new Bank of B.C. will have at least two branches in Victoria, president Frank Trebell said here Tuesday.

He said the city would have two branches offering comprehensive banking services, and added it's possible Oak Bay could have its own somewhat smaller branch.

Trebell, who came to town

for a press conference and luncheon speech, indicated plans include a branch here just to handle the provincial government account.

He said the reduction of the initial capital fund drive to $25,000,000 from $75,000,000 is all to the good.

"This way the bank will start earning immediately," he said. "It's obviously easier to attract $500,000,000 in deposits instead of $1,500,000,000. We will be able to build branches more slowly and control costs better."

Type A branches with 18 to 30 employees each offering a full range of commercial services will be confined initially to Vancouver and Victoria.

Vancouver will have the head office and, three or four branches in this category and Victoria will have two.

Type B, regionally-important branches, would be located in places like Kelowna and Prince George "and perhaps Oak Bay" which, according to Trebell, has sufficient savings to sustain such an operation.

Smaller branches will have to wait at least until the initial three-year development period is over, the president said.

Trebell said the bank hopes to decentralize its operations giving local branch managers more authority.

Since the capital goal was reduced, he said, the campaign has for the first time the full support of investment dealers, who asked that the closing date be extended one month to Aug. 15.

Trebell said policy is not to release details of support already received but, by the end of this week, "we'll be halfway to our goal with a month to go."

Experts Warn U.S.:

NUCLEAR LEAD GOING EAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. will lose its lead over Russia this year in terms of deliverable nuclear punch, a report signed by former leading U.S. military men said Tuesday.

And by 1971, the report said, "it appears that a massive megatonnage gap will have developed."

Megatonnage is the term used to describe the atomic force of strategic weapons — the firepower in the nuclear age, as the report put it. One megaton equals 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Among those who endorsed the study was U.S. Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, who was head of the country's intercontinental ballistic missile development program 12 years until he retired last August.

Schriever served as chairman of a special American Security Council subcommittee which, the report's foreword said, prepared the strategic military study for the armed services committee of the House of Representatives.

The council describes itself as a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education.

It was signed by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former air force chief of staff; Gen. Paul D. Adair, U.S. Army, former commander-in-chief, U.S. Strike Command; Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF, former commander of the Strategic Air Command; Admiral Robert L. Dennison, former commander of the Atlantic Fleet, and Dr. Edward Teller, the nuclear scientist. Except for Schriever, the military men are retired.

ANTI-MISSILE PLAN

In addition to expressing concern over the impending "megatonnage gap," the officers outlined the case for deployment of a U.S. anti-missile system, presented evidence that the Soviet Union may be building or testing nuclear bombs and blamed civilian leaders for a deliberate decision to allow the Soviet Union to allow the U.S. lead in terms of long-range offensive missiles.

LEAD IN NUMBERS

The United States, defence department figures say, now leads the Soviet Union in numbers of missiles by a 3-to-1 margin.

But discussing the megatonnage yield, or payload, of those missiles, the council subcommittee recalled Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara's own recent testimony to Congress.

"We should bear in mind that it is not the number of missiles which is important, but rather the character of the payload they carry; the missile is simply the delivery vehicle."

This year, the report said, the Soviet Union will reach a range of between 16,000 and 37,000 megatons in terms of deliverable atomic destruction, equaling or exceeding the United States' estimated range of 8,000 to 29,000 megatons.

In four years, the Soviet Union will have 30,000 to 50,000 deliverable megatons, compared

Bennett Anniversary

Happy No. 40!

Premier Bennett, who worked on the day of his wedding to Annie Elizabeth May Richards in Edmonton July 11, 1927, celebrated their 40th anniversary Tuesday by working a full day—then taking his wife out to dinner.

His main comment on the occasion: "I feel younger than I did 40 years ago."

He and Mrs. Bennett will fly to Montreal for B.C. Day at Expo Saturday. With them will be the premier's executive assistant, Clarence Budd—his best man of 40 years ago.

Nikita Claims:

We Elected Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP)—Retired Nikita Khrushchev claims the Kremlin thwarted Richard Nixon's election in 1960 and "made" John F. Kennedy president of the U.S.

In an NBC television program Tuesday, he calls Nixon a "good for nothing — an unprincipled puppet" and accuses Dwight Eisenhower as a good man, but too easily swayed by advisers.

BOUGHT VOTES

The former Soviet premier says Nixon sought to gain votes by obtaining the release of U-2 spy-plane Pilot Francis Gary Powers from a Soviet prison. Khrushchev maintains the Russians saw through the plan and ignored Nixon's request.

Khrushchev reserves his greatest praise for Kennedy, and says were he alive today "he would never let his country get into such a sticky situation as it now is in Vietnam."

Speaking from his dacha, or country house, near Moscow, Khrushchev recounts a conversation he said he had with Kennedy in Vienna in 1961.

"I told him, 'The fact that you became president was due to us. We made you president.' He asked me how should he understand that. I said, 'I'll tell you how.'"

"You collected 200,000 more votes than Nixon. Nixon asked us for Powers, the U-2 pilot, to be released... and if we had done it, he would have received half a million votes just for that... because that would have shown that Nixon could have established better contacts with the Soviet Union."

ASKED HOW

"But we guessed his plans. We decided not to give him any answer, and just to give it to you when you moved into the White House. So what do you think of that?" I asked Kennedy.

"He said, 'I agree with you entirely. If you had not acted

Roof Ripped by Wind

PORT ALBERNI — A strong, swirling gust of wind tore a section of roofing off the library at the new E. J. Dunn Junior high school late Monday afternoon.

Valentine Kowalewski of 395 8th Avenue south, gardener at the school, was working in the courtyard next to the library and said the gust of wind lasted about five minutes. It was of such force that it threw him to the ground and bent three trees almost to the ground.

Fearful of having the trees fall on him, Mr. Kowalewski rose to his feet and was forced against the library wall where he clung until it subsided.

Great chunks of roofing were blown up into the air almost out of sight and whirled around in circles before dropping back to the school yard. "At first I thought they were kites," Mr. Kowalewski explained.

Leo Hamel, school janitor who was also nearby, confirmed Mr. Kowalewski's observations.

The strong wind tore up about 1,000 square feet of built-up asphalt and gravel roofing and caused an estimated $1,000 damage to the flat library roof.

A large portion of roofing was left hanging over the edge of the roof and pieces were scattered about the school yard.

One large piece weighing 400 pounds came to rest 25 yards away from the building. The asphalt and gravel roofing and approximately 7 pounds per square foot.

'Labor Lacks Facts'

PORT ALBERNI — Ald. Garnet Reynolds has attacked a recent protest against the use of closed circuit television in the new police headquarters.

Ald. Reynolds claimed the labor council "is not in possession of the facts."

He made light of complaints by labor official Maurice Carbell that the TV cameras interfere with privacy of citizens.

MONEY SAVED
Ald. Reynolds was backed up by Ald. Ron Lyon, who said reasonable consideration was given to privacy.

He said "It was decided the circuit would protect individuals, and save money."

Another protest was received from Bud Handley, head of the NDP here. He said invasion of privacy could lead to a police state.

SPECIAL CASE
Mr. Handley said television might be all right in a special cell which housed a disturbed prisoner.

In other council news: There will be a byelection Aug. 26 to elect an alderman to fill the remaining portion of Ald. Lyon's term. He is going to Toronto.

LYON'S SHARE
Mayor Les Hammer praised Ald. Lyon's work.

Building is up from last year, running about $300,000 more than for June of 1966.

Ald. George McKnight has suggested Alberni and Port Alberni councils meet to discuss ambulance service.

CLEAN LOT
Council has ordered Safeway to clean up the site of a proposed supermarket at Tenth and Redford. Safeway must do it within two weeks, or it will be done by the city and the company will be charged.

"It's a junkyard," said Ald. Lyon.

Three Boys Win Battle Against Grass Blaze

By JEAN MacGREGOR

DUNCAN — Three little boys successfully played firemen at noon Tuesday when a small grass fire broke out at the end of Ypres Street, Duncan.

Mrs. Diane Smith, 40 Ypres, saw smoke coming from behind her front hedge when she looked out the kitchen window.

Realizing the tinder dryness of the grass and bush in the area, she ran to phone the fire department.

Then she saw the smoke had suddenly disappeared.

She dashed out, and found three barefoot boys in their bathing suits, putting out the fire with the use of a mandarin orange box.

The youngsters, aged between seven and nine, told Mrs. Smith they were coming back from swimming in the pool at Kinsmen Park when they noticed the fire.

The boys ran up the street looking for something with which to put it out, and spotted the orange box.

The youngsters grabbed it and all three returned to the small fire and smothered the flames with the box.

The fire was within 10 feet of the house. No cause is yet known.

Mrs. Smith said, "I was really scared when I saw the smoke — it was blowing towards the house. Everything is so dry, and the fire could have got out of control in no time."

Mrs. Smith completed her call to the fire department, telling them that the fire seemed to be out, but requesting that someone come and check it.

A police car arrived within minutes. After checking the area, the police officer agreed with Mrs. Smith that she should use her water hose to wet down the surrounding grass, hedge and small bushes.

Mrs. Smith said "The quick thinking of the three little boys probably prevented a serious situation." She said in the course of phoning the fire department, she barely had time to say "thank you," before the three young heroes disappeared.

Special Class Needs Teacher

COURTENAY — Difficulty in getting a teacher will probably stall an ambitious project to aid brain-damaged children.

Finding someone to do the teaching was the last hurdle for the school board, but it is a high hurdle.

Instruction director John Walsh told the board the Education Department has approved a class to admit brain-damaged children.

But he said the hard fact is, such approval does not mean the board will be able to start such a class.

Mr. Walsh said such students are not always retarded, but they are in a special category.

NONE SEEN
Each child presents a peculiar and frustrating problem for the teacher involved, especially when brain-damaged students are enrolled in ordinary classes with normal children.

But Mr. Walsh said the possibility of getting a teacher for the special class is remote.

MOST FILLED
His report on the staffing problems faced as September rolls forward, was generally encouraging.

He said all elementary positions are filled, with the exception of a remedial teacher, a librarian, and the teacher slated for the special class for brain-damaged children.

FOUR TO GO
In high school, there are four vacancies. Mr. Walsh expects these to be filled by Aug. 1.

He told the board there are more than 400 vacancies in B.C. schools. He said it is much harder to recruit on Vancouver Island than on the mainland, and in his opinion, the image of the Island should be improved.

RECRUITING
He said there is a definite effort to improve the image of Courtenay school district, to recruit more teachers.

This is being done by making a motion picture showing school buildings, scenery of the area, and recreation prospects.

Construction jobs on several schools are on schedule. Education department approval has been received for completion of the cafeteria-kitchen area at the new Varian High School at Sandwick.

Telephone Chief On Island Tour

NANAIMO — B.C. Telephone president and chief executive J. E. Richardson toured the Island Tuesday on his annual June viewing developments and meeting employees.

While in Nanaimo, he visited the Wellington-Nanaimo facilities, which account for a $2,600,000 capital budget.

At a luncheon, many company officials (throughout the Island and the mainland) heard Mr. Richardson tell of the company's plans not to hide anything from the public by using a complete accountability campaign.

He admitted the company is as prone to making mistakes as any individual.

"We've got to be better than private enterprise companies, because the telephone is still a public utility—even if not government owned."

Money Goes Down Drain

LADYSMITH—Waterworks chairman Ald. Bob Stillin told town council in June Holland Creek water system meter showed a consumption of 22,000,000 gallons.

He said the water served 3,000 persons, including 200 in the Diamond area. Several hundred more were supplied from the Saltair waterworks served from Stocking Lake.

Council was concerned about waste of water, because the community is apparently using 300 gallons a person a day.

Where does it go? What is it used for?
"Irrigating gravel," said Ald. Jim Moore.
"Flooding basements," said Ald. Bernard Churchill.
"Maybe meters will be the best solution," said Ald. Bob Stillin.

'Vague, Loose, Copied'

$2,000 Report Bombs

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN —

An expensive, long-awaited recreation report has been blasted at first sight.

The report was unveiled Tuesday to waiting recreation commissioners, and it was termed loose, vague, and "apparently copied" in part from a similar study several years ago.

The report cost $2,000 and was prepared by professional planners A. B. Sanderson, Victoria and Vancouver.

Commissioner Jack Efford led the attack against the report, which deals with local, municipal and regional development as far north as Ladysmith.

IN DETAIL
It also takes in the city of Duncan and the Lake Cowichan area. The planners state "While it is beyond the scope of this report to examine in detail each sport or activity carried out within the municipality, it will be of interest to examine the various recreational facilities available to serve them."

Commissioner Efford said, "This report has been done by professional people who have given a great deal of material and we also provided with a previous study."

RATHER VAGUE
"To me it is a rather vague report."

"They have not done all they could."

One of Commissioner Efford's main complaints was that the planners did not discuss a draft with the commission before it was finalized.

Commission chairman Com. Dennis Hogan pointed out the planners had carried out what they had been asked to do.

FIRST PHASE
He referred to the report as phase No. 1.

Com. Hogan said the report would serve as a guide and "I don't think we have to go back to them." He referred to future studies.

Commissioner Jack Gallagher did not agree with Commissioner Efford. He said "I think it is an excellent report."

MAKE DECISION
"Now we have enough information to make a decision on major regional development and how to develop our local areas."

Mr. Gallagher said the planners had done what they had been paid for.

Commissioner Norman Bevan criticized "many inconsistencies" in the report and "They left a lot for us to straighten out."

"It is a pity that we didn't have a meeting with the planners before they finalized the report."

GET OPINIONS
Commissioner Baden Millard suggested to meet with the active recreation commissions at Ladysmith and Saltair to get their opinions.

Kinsmen Rescue Class For Lake Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN — Two instructors are teaching 300 children and adults to swim this summer, under the Kiwanis-sponsored swimming program at Lake Cowichan.

Dianna Gunderson and Doug Harvey work from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. five days a week during the six-week course which started last week.

Most of the youngsters are beginners, about six or seven. The beginners receive one-half hour of instruction every morning, and the more experienced swimmers are taught for an hour in the afternoon.

With the classes being held every day for six weeks, the instructors have found that most of the swimmers receive sufficient instruction to pass the tests in August.

Lake Cowichan Kinsmen took over organization of the swim classes four years ago, following disbanding of United Organizations, which included members of all clubs in the district.

United Organizations had run swimming courses for about 15 years. Each year Kinsmen hold a campaign where residents are canvassed for funds to support the swimming classes.

Donations are also received from major companies and various employees' associations in the area. About $1,000 is raised to pay the instructors' salaries and for improvements at the duck pond in Riverside Park where the classes are held.

This year, the Kinsmen have redecked the docks and replaced the diving boards.

Kinsman Gordon Louet said "The money is used for swimming instruction and water safety in the vicinity of the swim classes."

He added that if the weather is still good after the conclusion of the classes, the instructors are further employed while the weather holds in a supervisory position at the duck pond.

"The instructors act as lifeguards on a five-day a week basis (not including weekends) after the classes are finished, and they are also available for individual instruction for swimmers who frequent the duck pond," Mr. Louet said.

"This has been a year of suggestions with many residents from other areas around the lake requesting the Kinsmen Club to sponsor lifeguard services for other beaches."

"We just cannot do it," said Mr. Louet. "The Kinsmen Club has enough responsibility working for good swimming instruction at Lake Cowichan, as the money we get only goes so far."

Rocks Cause Fire Worry

Lives Valued at Nanaimo High

NANAIMO — The problem of whether to retain the rockery outside the exit of Nanaimo Senior High School is causing school officials some worry.

They have to decide if it is necessary to fill in the rockery, which has been described as having wonderful aesthetic value, because of the danger of students stumbling through it to get clear in the event of a fire.

A YEAR AGO
Nanaimo deputy fire chief Albert Dunn in February last year recommended the area be made safe in case of fire, either by removing the rockery or filling it in.

His recommendations were made out of courtesy, because he has no jurisdiction in the Harwood area in which the school is situated.

He admitted the chance of fire was very slim.

He and city building inspector

Ben Boers agreed that safety measures could be taken to the rockery.

But they said girls in high heels could easily trip and stumble in the rocky garden outside the exit.

The hypothetical case of fire causing panic with as many as 500 students in the auditorium also tripping over loose seats was raised.

No school in the district has permanent seats.

Nanaimo Motorcyclist Injured in Crash

NANAIMO — A 19-year-old girl motorcyclist was hauled from under a small European car Tuesday night in an accident at Montague Road and Wakeham Avenue.

Taken to Nanaimo Regional and General Hospital only minutes after the accident was Marlene Farkas, 960 Bruce Street.

She was admitted with undetermined injuries. The car was driven by Gladys M. Lister, 780 Bruce.

Dobson Slams Tax Charge

Vocational School's heavy equipment bites into Holland Park

Ladysmith Plans Ahead

Holland Park Rolling

LADYSMITH — This town has reached the second stage of a potential housing development in the Holland Park district.

Heavy machines under the guidance of Nanaimo Vocational School students have roughed out an access road to the housing sites which overlook a wide panorama of islands.

The land is 30 acres, and has been offered to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at $1,000 an acre.

Council has received a letter from J. E. Brown, housing commissioner for the province, suggesting there should be clarification on the division of costs for lot services.

Mr. Brown and an official of CMHA will meet Ladysmith council the week of July 24. He told council a B.C. Hydro line crosses the development area, and it will be necessary for the town to arrange to have the line moved.

Mayor Kay Grouhel said a meeting some time ago with

B.C. Hydro was "helpful" and it is likely the poor condition of the line will reduce the municipal share of moving it to $15 a pole.

When the lots are completed for building purposes, the 50 plots will have full municipal and utility services built in, including water, power, sewer and sanitary sewers, landscaped boulevards and hard-surfaced curbed streets.

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson is concerned about the large water tax the city must pay to North Cowichan.

Council was told the tax for the city's water pipes which are in North Cowichan municipality, has reached $3,500.

This includes tax money for buildings related to the water system.

SAME PIPES

The mayor said he was concerned about the tax, because the same pipes produce a service to North Cowichan residents by delivering water to their homes.

Ald. Homer Alex said the city's water system in June produced 45,000,000 gallons of water.

WRONG ATTITUDE

The mayor criticized North Cowichan's attitude.

"On the one hand they want co-operation from us. But on the other hand they levy a tax on a utility which is being used by their own people."

TAX-FREE ONCE

At first the city water pipes in the municipality's territory were tax free but more than 10 years ago they were assessed and ever since taxes had to be paid.

Meanwhile the city water system produced as much as 2,700,000 gallons during the warmest day in June which is about 1,300 gallons a minute.

TWO MORE WELLS

City council will study a suggestion from Ald. Hamish Mutter to consider sinking two more wells.

"Although there is no emergency at the moment, we could have problems and the additional wells would take care of peak periods."

"It wouldn't take too much to bring in another well."

ONLY ON HALF

Council was told even on the hottest day the system only was used at half its full capacity, but Mayor Dobson remarked "people should practice moderation in using water and not let their sprinklers run day and night."

Ferry Officers May Open Files

B.C. ferry officers are threatened in council's claim that of being "totally ignored" by the provincial government and threatened Tuesday to open their files to the press unless they soon get government action.

Word on a three-month-old request by dock officers and engineers, members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, for a board of reference is still being awaited.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

"The government guarantees that if everybody follows the civil service procedure, everybody will be happy," union spokesman Capt. Robert Owen said Tuesday from Vancouver.

"We have followed the correct, laid-down procedure, but apparently the government is not willing to do the same."

DOZEN MEETINGS

The officers, wanting a board of reference under the terms of the Civil Service Act, held more than a dozen meetings with the Civil Service Commission before last April, and were not happy with the results and lodged an appeal, he said.

Capt. Owen explained that a board of reference is similar to an arbitration board, but is governed by civil service regulations.

"We applied in mid-April for the board, and despite a 1961

Powell River

Arsenic Barrels Worry Officials

There is some doubt whether 13 of 21 barrels of arsenic pesticide which fell from a MacMillan Bloedel float last month at Teakeme Arm near Powell River will ever be recovered.

A shell fishing ban will be maintained in the area until a federal fisheries department biologist, who left for the area Tuesday, reports whether there is a danger.

The biologist will re-sample sea water and shell fish for possible arsenic poisoning because it is believed the barrels may be leaking.

Eight barrels were recovered by divers. Ken Jackson, department spokesman, said the company has agreed to sink the recovered barrels in concrete

Sandy Summer At Qualicum

QUALICUM BEACH — Always dream of sitting softly on the burning sands, building sandcastles through the heat of summer?

That's what you can do, and win prize and fame too, at Qualicum Beach centennial jamboree days July 21 and 22.

The event begins with a children's novelty parade at 4 p.m. July 21. Children will assemble at Memorial Avenue and Crescent Road. They will be in costume, ride decorated bikes, and pull pets along.

Also at 4 p.m. through midnight, the midway runs with rides, games and food booth. From 7 p.m. to midnight there will be a Legion bingo, with special hourly prizes.

They will be a display of vintage aircraft early in the evening, and at 7:30 p.m. there will be a mile swim.

July 22 is the big day, with four age groups competing in the sand castle contest. The building is done in pairs, starting at 11 a.m., and judging begins at noon.

The midway rolls again from 11 a.m. through midnight.

At 1 p.m. there will be a whole schedule of foot races and novelty races, for many age groups.

Novelty events include peanut and sack races.

At 2 p.m. that day there is an RCMP air show, a Legion bingo at 2:30 p.m., skydiving by Comet skydivers at 7 p.m.

The night closes with a brilliant burst of centennial fireworks at 10 p.m.

Coroner Case

Lawyer 'Fed To Teeth'

TORONTO (CP)—Deputy coroner David Lewis stirred things up Tuesday when he suddenly appeared as counsel for dismissed Metro Toronto chief coroner Dr. Milton Shulman at a royal commission probe into Shulman's charges of government interference.

The commissioner, Ontario Supreme Court Justice W. D. Parker, said Shulman had no right to be represented by counsel after his first lawyer, Walter Williston, withdrew Monday.

Lewis shot back, "I'm fed to the teeth with this kind of statement," after which the commissioner accepted Lewis.

He also agreed to an adjournment so Lewis and the commission staff can discuss a resumption date.

Road Toll A Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. motor vehicle accidents took record tolls of dead, injured and property damage last year, the B.C. Safety Council said Tuesday.

The death toll rose to 520 from 500 in 1965, the injury total to 19,450 from 17,574 and the property damage to $26,196,227 from $23,625,696. The number of vehicles rose to 817,348 from 764,353.

Victim of Rivard Affair

Once Liberal Star, Favreau Dies at 50

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Favreau, former federal cabinet minister who resigned in 1965 due to criticism resulting from the Rivard affair the year before, died Tuesday in a hospital he entered June 18 for treatment of uremia. He was 50.

Once considered heir apparent to the Liberal party leadership, he was first elected in 1963. In the next year, he became citizenship and immigration minister, and then justice minister, government House leader and chief of Quebec federal Liberals.

Favreau

time in the U.S. on a narcotics charge.

The report of the resulting royal commission inquiry criticized Mr. Favreau for deciding on his own against prosecutions based on the Lamontagne allegations.

Mr. Favreau resigned June 26, 1965, stayed in the cabinet as minister without portfolio and then president of the Privy Council and registrar-general. This year, he resigned due to ill health and was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

Prime Minister Pearson said of the death of the Montreal-born Favreau: "I have lost a dear friend and Canada has lost a great patriot. He had no trace of meanness or smallness in his nature."

John Diefenbaker, extending sympathy, said: "It is very sad."

Vancouver Sniper Inquest

Patient Dangerous Doctor Told Police

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor treating Arthur John Towell testified Tuesday he contacted police and told them the former airman "was potentially dangerous and should be investigated."

Dr. Henry Chong said one of his reasons for contacting the police was that "he didn't want the guns to be there when I was there."

He was testifying at an inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. David Webster, shot by a sniper last Thursday in the backyard of their Point Grey district house.

Towell, 35, who suffered a severe brain injury while stationed in West Germany with the RCAF several years ago, is charged with capital murder in the Webster deaths and two counts of attempted murder in the wounding of two women.

Dr. Chong said Towell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Towell, came to his office last August and expressed concern about what their son might do.

"The boy was afraid someone was after him," said Dr. Chong. "The parents were afraid of what he might do. I told them to go to the police and the situation would be investigated."

"I didn't know if they would go to the police, so I contacted the police myself and told them

No Letup in Air War McNamara Promises

From UPI, AP, LAT

SAIGON — U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara finished his five-day Vietnam visit Tuesday and flew back to Washington to tell President Johnson how much more men, money and material must be pumped into the war.

Before leaving, he said there would be no letup in the air war, declared U.S. commanders will get all the troops necessary and hinted it may be difficult to justify commitments above the 470,000 Americans now authorized for battlefield duty. (See also Page 3).

ASKS FOR MORE

McNamara's recommendations are expected to play an important role in administration policy during the next few months.

Gen. William Westmoreland was believed to have asked for between 100,000 and 200,000 additional troops.

Sources said McNamara instead urged Westmoreland's

Cuban Banished

MIAMI (AP)—U.S. immigration authorities Tuesday ordered Cuban exile leader Felipe Rivero, 45, banished from the U.S. for anti-Castro terrorist activities.

Rivero, arrested May 5 after he threatened to blow up the Cuban pavilion at Expo, will be sent to a country of his choice, possibly Spain.

However, his lawyers said they will appeal the immigration court verdict, to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. He has lived in the U.S. since 1955 as a refugee under parole, except for time in Cuban prisons after the Bay of Pigs fiasco.

Nuclear Lead

U.S. LOSING TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. will lose its lead over Russia this year in terms of deliverable nuclear punch, a report signed by former leading U.S. military men said Tuesday.

And by 1971, the report said, "it appears that a massive megatonnage gap will have developed."

Megatonnage is the term used to describe the atomic force of strategic weapons — the fire-power in the nuclear age, as the report put it. One megaton equals 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Among those who endorsed the study was U.S. Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, who was head of the country's intercontinental ballistic missile development program 12 years until he retired last August.

PREPARED STUDY

Schriever served as chairman of a special American Security Council subcommittee which, the report's foreword said, prepared the strategic military study for the armed services committee of the House of Representatives.

The council describes itself as a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education.

SIGNED BY LEMAY

In addition to Schriever, the report was signed by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former six-time chief of staff; Gen. Paul D. Adams, U.S. Army, former commander-in-chief, U.S. Strike Command; Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF, former commander of the Strategic Air Command; Admiral Robert L. Dennison, former commander of the Atlantic Fleet, and Dr. Edward Teller, the nuclear scientist. Except for Schriever, the military men are retired.

ANTI-MISSILE PLAN

In addition to expressing concern over the impending "megatonnage gap," the officers outlined the case for deployment of a U.S. anti-missile system, presented evidence that the Soviet Union may be building orbital nuclear bombs and blamed civilian leaders for a deliberate decision to allow the Soviet Union to slice the U.S. lead in terms of long-range offensive missiles.

LEAD IN NUMBERS

The United States, defence department figures say, now leads the Soviet Union in numbers of missiles by a 3-to-1 margin.

But discussing the megatonnage yield, or payload, of those missiles, the council subcommittee recalled Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara's own recent testimony to Congress:

"We should bear in mind that it is not the number of missiles which is important, but rather the character of the payloads they carry; the missile is simply the delivery vehicle."

TO EXCEED U.S.

This year, the report said, the Soviet Union will reach a range of between 16,000 and 37,000 megatons in terms of deliverable atomic destruction, equaling or exceeding the United States' estimated range of 8,000 to 29,000 megatons.

In four years, the Soviet Union will have 30,000 to 50,000 deliverable megatons, compared

Bennett Anniversary

Happy No. 40!

Premier Bennett, who worked on the day of his wedding to Anne Elizabeth May Richards in Richmond July 11, 1927, celebrated their 40th anniversary Tuesday by working a full day—then taking his wife out to dinner.

His main comment on the occasion: "I feel younger than I did 40 years ago."

He and Mrs. Bennett will fly to Montreal for B.C. Day at Expo Saturday. With them will be the premier's executive assistant, William Budd—his best man of 40 years ago.

Nikita Claims:

We Elected Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP)—Retired Nikita Khrushchev claims the Kremlin thwarted Richard Nixon's election in 1960 and "made" John F. Kennedy president of the U.S.

In an NBC television program Tuesday, he calls Nixon a "good for nothing" and an "unprincipled puppet" and accuses Dwight Eisenhower as a good man, but too easily swayed by advisers.

BOUGHT VOTES

The former Soviet premier says Nixon sought to gain votes by obtaining the release of U-2 spy-plane Pilot Francis Gary Powers from a Soviet prison. Khrushchev maintains the Russians saw through the plan and ignored Nixon's request.

Khrushchev reserves his greatest praise for Kennedy, saying he would never let his country get into such a sticky situation as it now is in Vietnam.

Speaking from his dacha, or country house, near Moscow, Khrushchev recounts a conversation he said he had with Kennedy in Vienna in 1961:

ASKED HOW

"I told him, 'The fact that you became president was due to us. We made you president.' He asked me how should he understand that, I said, 'I'll tell you how.'"

"You collected 200,000 more votes than Nixon. Nixon asked us for Powers, the U-2 pilot, to be released... and if we had done it, he would have received half a million votes just for that."

Because he would have shown that Nixon could have established better contacts with the Soviet Union.

'WE GUESSED'

"But we guessed his plans. We decided not to give him any answer, and just to give it to you when you moved into the White House. So what do you think of that?" I asked Kennedy.

"He said, 'I agree with you entirely. If you had not acted

Interview Dealer Identified

WASHINGTON (LAT)—The man who arranged the Nikita Khrushchev TV show on Tuesday and a similar Nikita-in-retirement article in Parade magazine last weekend is a Soviet newsman and showman named Victor Louis, the Los Angeles Times learned Tuesday.

Louis is an accredited Moscow correspondent of the London Evening News, served as a part-time Moscow representative for Parade and other publications, and has the confidence of both the Kremlin and western publishers and broadcasters.

He has been working on the Khrushchev deal since September, 1965, a year after he scored a world beat on Khrushchev's ouster.

Parade indicated Louis suggested the NBC part of the deal and hinted that Kremlin backing by noting Louis and his two Soviet cameramen could not enter the Khrushchev home without it, since its high gate is constantly guarded.

Two B.C. Bank Branches Here

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The new Bank of B.C. will have at least two branches in Victoria, president Frank Trebell said here Tuesday.

He said the city would have two branches offering comprehensive banking services, and added it's possible Oak Bay could have its own somewhat smaller branch.

Trebell, who came to town

for a press conference and luncheon speech, indicated plans include a branch here just to handle the provincial government account.

He said the reduction of the initial capital fund drive to $25,000,000 from $75,000,000 is all to the good.

"This way the bank will start earning immediately," he said. "It's obviously easier to attract $500,000,000 in deposits instead of $1,500,000,000. We will be able to build branches more slowly and control costs better."

Type-A branches with 18 to 30 employees each offering a full range of commercial services will be confined initially to Vancouver and Victoria.

Vancouver will have the head office and three or four branches in this category and Victoria will have two.

Type B, regionally-important branches, would be located in places like Kelowna and Prince George "and perhaps Oak Bay" which, according to Trebell, has sufficient savings to sustain such an operation.

Smaller branches will have to wait at least until the initial three-year development period is over, the president said.

Trebell said the bank hopes to decentralise its operations giving local branch managers more authority.

Since the capital goal was reduced, he said, the campaign has for the first time the full support of investment dealers, who asked that the closing date be extended one month to Aug. 15.

Trebell said policy is not to release details of support already received but, by the end of this week, "we'll be halfway to our goal with a month to go."
